

FUNERAL YESTERDAY
OF CORP. QUINN

The funeral of Corp. Edward F. Quinn, the Lowell soldier who died in France, Oct. 8, 1918, took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the chapel of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons on Market street. Full military honors were paid the deceased soldier by comrade veterans of the world war and other members of various organizations with which he had been associated.

At 1:45 members of Lowell Post, American Legion; Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, the Broadway Social and Athletic club, the C.Y.M.L., St. Patrick's Holy Name society and the Liberty Square Associates assembled at their respective quarters and marched to the O'Donnell's undertaking rooms. Leading the Knights of Columbus delegation was the Lowell Cadet band. The flag-draped casket had been placed in the middle of the street and members of the various organizations marched past it with heads uncovered. The ceremony was most impressive to the large number of onlookers who viewed it from the sidewalk.

After this part of the ceremony the casket was placed in the hearse by the following bearers, all overseas men: Joseph Sheehy, John McDonald, M. Andrew Molloy and John Frawley, representing the K. of C., and John J. Scully, William Furey, Edward Hines and Stephen Gleeson, representing the C.Y.M.L.

The funeral procession was then formed and marched to St. Patrick's cemetery. The procession was headed by the Cadet band and a large K. of C. delegation, many of the members turning out in uniform. Then followed the other organizations. At the grave the officiating clergymen were Rev. Francis L. Keenan, chaplain of the C.Y.M.L.; Rev. Joseph A. Curtis, chaplain of St. Patrick's Holy Name society, and Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan, chaplain of the Knights of Columbus.

A quartet from the Knights of Columbus, composed of James E. Donnelly, William F. Thornton, Timothy F. Rohan and Thomas A. Delmore, sang appropriate hymns. A firing squad from the American Legion, commanded by Eli B. Hart, fired a volley and the ceremony ended with "Taps" sounded by Ernest Ready and Frank Merritt. This latter ceremony was most impressive with one bugler standing near the grave and the other quite a distance away, giving the effect of an echo.

ADDRESSED WORLD
WAR VETERANS

At the morning service of the First Baptist church yesterday, the pastor, Rev. Edward Babcock, welcomed the veterans of the world war and spoke interestingly about the conflict and the American Legion, his remarks being in part as follows:

"America entered the world war with highest motives not seeking extension of territory or commerce. War is always wrong, never right. America went forth as the policeman to put down evil. Let the American Legion always stand for the same high ideals. Then it will be a blessing to America and the world. We selected our armies on the basis of patriotism. God speed the day when there will be no hyphenated Americans. Let the Legion stand for that. Fortunately it is for the world that Germany failed. Let the American flag fly for international justice. I never voted for President Wilson but he is a great man. It will be written in history that he forced other nations to his idealism, at least so far as to express it on paper. He who seeks to brew trouble between countries that have been allies is a traitor to the country. England is the greatest friend America has. We never could have maintained the Monroe doctrine without England. We never could have maintained our armies in France without England's armies. He who tries to make trouble between America and England is an enemy to his country. Jesus Christ came to bring peace. I want the American Legion to stand for everlasting peace between America and her allies. Had the American flag been torn down and trampled on in England as the British flag was in New York recently we would have demanded an apology, but England, knowing that we have troubles of our own, has not said a word. She earnestly wants us to know that she is our friend. Let us do all we can to maintain and preserve peace."

At the evening service Rev. Mr. Babcock delivered his first sermon in a series, which he will give during the winter months, his topic being "The Head of the House."

PROTEST MEETING

Over 200 people attended the protest meeting against the reduction of wages in local mills, which was held yesterday afternoon in the Old Exchange Hotel. The meeting was presided over by Thomas J. Hogan, general organizer for the United Textile Workers of America and was addressed by Francis A. Warnock, president of the Trades & Labor council and Horace Riviers of Montreal, general organizer for the U.T.W. of America.

We have values this week that will be remembered for a long time

Big Reductions in Sport Skirts

Early this season we waited for the drop in prices in Sport Skirts, and when we did buy we were able to sell all wool plaid and striped skirts at the original wholesale prices—They were real bargains at $10.50, $19.95 and $25.00, but the manufacturers were over-loaded on materials and another crash has come, and now we can buy them at 25% lower, so we have reduced our stock for a Grand Clean-up Sale. Priced—

$10.75 and $16.75

for our three hundred beautiful all wool plaid skirts, made by the best makers we know, from the best materials obtainable; all sizes. We think these prices are below any we will quote for the next year for like quality.

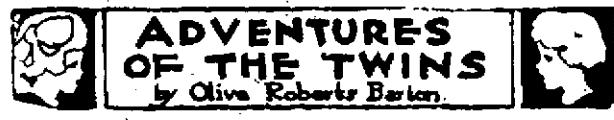

Sweaters

Two hundred Tuxedo Tie-Back and Novelty Sweaters, in the most wanted shades, navy and black, also black and white, navy and white, and tan. All the newest link and link styles—not a sweater but what is new since Sept. 1st. But we want to advertise and make new customers for this department, as well as the others, so we have marked regular $5.98, $6.98 and $7.98 Sweaters

$3.98

We are not anxious to sell these at this price, but we will have plenty of them for this week, even if we have to buy more and sell them at less than cost.

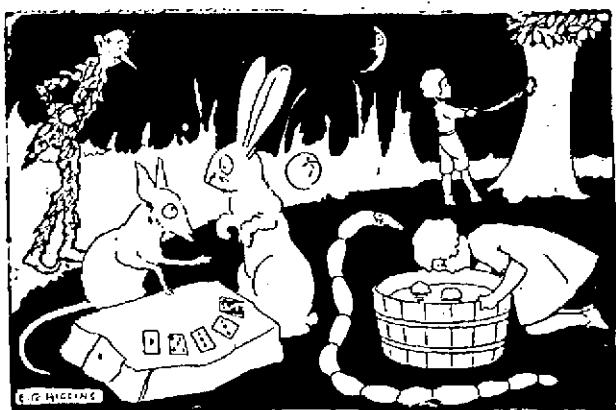

THE MUSHROOM'S RIDDLE

Of course there was dancing at Mr. Scarecrow's masquerade party, and everybody had loads of fun. Cobby Coon had a hard time, however, finding a partner! And so did Wisp Wren and Snooty Skunk and Marty Mink. You see, it was this way. Along in the fall when the harvesting was over and the sweet corn gone 'n all, and Farmer mother had reminded him to be gallant, before he left home, and to be sure and behave his manners. So, after thinking it all over, Flop decided that he just wouldn't. But they had a good time, anyhow, even Sam Snake's boy, who had rubberbands snipped all over him, and who had come as a string of sausages. They had nut-cracking and fortunes

THEY HAD NUT-CRACKING AND BOBBING FOR APPLES, AND RIDDLES.

Smith had cooped up his chickens for the cold weather, Cobby's appetite began to bother him. Besides, you know, cold weather makes one hungry as a hunter.

So it was perfectly natural, wasn't it, that Cobby, being large for his age and quite the grown, might make a mistake when he was dancing with Chip Chipmunk's sister, and absolutely mistake her for a nice juicy carrot or sweet turnip and swallow her, "hidin' 'n all!" The same with Flop Field Mouse. He was awfully afraid to ask Mr. Owl to dance, even though his bought only one at a time, with long, lean intervals.

Best Dressed Senator

On a wall in his shop, Gettum has hung a clipping from a Washington paper, referring to Harding as "the best dressed man in the Senate." Gettum takes some pride in that.

The president-elect, Gettum says, is conservative in his dress, preferring carefully cut clothing of the very finest materials. His measurements are carefully on file, so that even in ordering the "trousseau" Harding simply sent in the list.

Please Read This Letter And See What Normal Health Will Do For You.

Lancaster, Pa.—"I was weak and run down, had pains in my head, back and stomach all the time, and bearing down pains. I had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me, so my mother got me to try it again, and I am now feeling better than I have for years. We were married sixteen years and had no children, but now we have a fine big boy and we always call him our 'Pinkham's boy.' The doctor was afraid of my case as I was 41 years old when the boy was born, but I came through all right. You can use this as a testimonial if you wish and I will certainly write to any one who writes to me about it." —Mrs. MARGARET G. HAYERCAMP, 520 Howard Avenue, Lancaster, Pa.

Good health during maternity is a most important factor to both mother and child, and many letters have been received, telling of health restored during this trying period by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

INTRIGUING WHITE AND GREY COSTUME

BY CORA MOORE

NEW YORK'S Fashion Authority
NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Is there any combination more fascinating than gray and white? Witness the intriguing costume that Kathleen Martyn of the New York Amsterdam root wears.

The frock is palest gray taffeta with three cross-wise tucks on the skirt that are pulled straight after the whole has been accordion plaited. The bodice is simply cut with a hemstitched lawn collar in the square-cut neck and roll-back cuffs on the elbow sleeves. But it is the ornate scarf and the little round turban of white feathers with its two white wings across the sides, as if poised for flight, that give the costume its particular appeal.

The scarf has the falls arranged fringe fashion some 12 inches from the ends, and it is lined with a soft, pale blue silver cloth instead of with the usual white satin.

WASHINGTON—One of the most striking portraits ever made of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is that by Seymour M. Stone, the famous artist, which has just been completed. Critics have been unanimous in praising the work.

APPLY GOLDEN RULE TO INDUSTRY PROBLEMS

A remarkable story of how the golden rule has been given a practical and successful application to the problems of industry was told by Arthur Nash of Cincinnati, Ohio, in Grace Universalist church yesterday. Mr. Nash asserted that while other concerns in the same business as himself had been obliged to curtail production, his concern had added to the number of its orders and that wages had been voluntarily increased several times. He said he had tried to inculcate among the workers, who are not unionized, a desire to look at problems from the viewpoint of their employer and that he had promised to try to put himself in their place when they had any requests to make. He said that his workers were contented and that their number had increased under the practice of the golden rule from 50 to 300.

"When we first called our people together and talked over the condition in the industry, and proclaimed the Golden Rule as our governing law," said Mr. Nash, "we had a picture of a profit-sharing system of paying wages, which we submitted to that little group. Their confidence in the management was such that they said they did not want that system, as they would rather have their pay each week, and were willing to leave it to the management to figure out what they could pay in a weekly wage. During the increase of production and on account of the wonderful loyalty shown by our help we made several increases in wages during 1919. "When we took our inventory at the end of 1919 we found that in spite of these increases in wages we had made the enormous net profit of $42,000 on an investment of $60,000.

"As soon as our inventory was completed and the figures verified we immediately went before our help with these figures. We felt greatly gratified, because it is our belief that this is an unjustifiable profit to make off the labor of others; we frankly told our help so, and we immediately put into effect another increase in wages in our factory. This increase ranged from 10 to 20 per cent.

"We immediately called our help together again. This time we told them that when we had presented the profit-sharing proposition there was only a little handful of them, and it was impossible for us to figure approximately what each one was producing each week, but that since our working force had increased to over 100, and we were producing a little better than a suit of clothes every two minutes, it was not possible for us to tell with any degree of accuracy what each one was producing per week. We again laid before them the profit-sharing basis of arriving at a just wage, and told them that we knew of no other way to solve the problem. This time they voted unanimously to adopt this system.

"By the plan presented to them the profits were to be divided among the help on the basis of salaries earned, twelve each year. But when they got back out into the work-rooms, the Golden Rule began to work in their minds.

A petition was presented saying: "Realizing that the A. Nash company is using every effort to be truly just and democratic and realizing that in making the final adjustment of wages on the profit-sharing basis a very large share of this final payment, as at present intended, would go to those making big wages, and heartily agreeing with the management that it is not just that the lion's share of the profits should go to any individual, all of whom are drawing a weekly wage of over $60, do hereby petition the management of the A. Nash company to distribute the workers' share of profits, which is to be distributed July 1, 1920, on the basis of time worked instead of on the basis of wages drawn."

"This will give those making the smaller wage an equal dividend with those making the larger one, and we believe is not only needed by them, but is just and in keeping with the policy of our company. We are sure this will be appreciated by all the help."

"When this petition was laid before me I immediately called up a preacher who had been greatly interested in our work and asked him to come over and read it. I will never forget the look on his face when he finished reading that petition and said, 'Mr. Nash, there is more Christianity in that petition than in all the sermons preached in Cincinnati!'

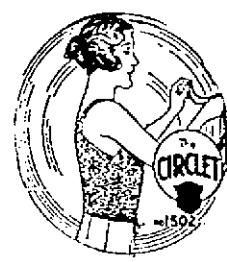

PHI PSI FRATERNITY

The Phi Psi fraternity of the Lowell Textile school held its first party of the season over the weekend. Activities started Friday evening with a theatre and continued Saturday with a football game and an informal dance at the Pawtucket boat house in the evening. The chapter house in Mt. Washington street was turned over to the visitors who remained in Lowell Saturday evening. C. Lombard and B. Valentine were in charge of the theatre party and the dance was under the direction of C. H. Bird, S. Gillie and Richard Hadley.

TO CARE FOR 300,000 JEWISH WAR ORPHANS

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Broad plans by which, through American aid, the several hundred thousand Jewish war orphans of Europe and Palestine are to be supported and cared for were announced last night by the joint distribution committee of the American Funds for Jewish War Sufferers, which has created a war orphans' committee, comprised of distinguished Americans, under the chairmanship of Major Solomon Löwenstein of the Red Cross, executive director of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic societies of New York city and formerly superintendent of the Hebrew orphan asylum there.

In connection with the announcement emphasis is laid by Felix M. Warburg, chairman of the joint distribution committee, on the fact that the orphan problem is of the largest magnitude and importance and will remain a problem to be dealt with for many years to come.

"The future of the children of Europe affects," says Mr. Warburg's statement, accompanying the announcement, "not alone the future of the Jewish people throughout the world but the well-being of all the countries of Europe and of the near east."

"It is recognized by the committee that it is both imprudent and unwise to attempt to solve the problem through the emigration of any large number of orphans, either to America or to the south."

"The committee's effort will be directed along the line of developing the orphans in each country into the most useful and patriotic citizens of the country of which they are natives and especial pain is to be taken to direct their lives toward producing from the soil, rather than in the lines of trade."

"To in any way complete successfully with this problem" Mr. Warburg further declared last night, "the sympathy and interest of all the Jewish people of the United States must be secured, especially of the women, to whom the subject of the welfare of these hundreds of thousands of children should appeal with particular force, as was true of the appeals made during the war in behalf of the children of France, Belgium, Serbia and other nations."

Two main objectives are to be sought by the committee, acting in conjunction with a European bureau, under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Simon Peter of Cincinnati. The first is to enlist the contributions of a great number of American Jews who shall agree to give $100 a year for the support of an orphan in Europe and, the second, to accomplish the reunion of a limited number of Jewish war orphans with their relatives in the United States.

Upon the committee, the directing head of which is Charles Zunser, formerly consul of the national delegation bureau, and which is representative of the three constituent committees of the joint distribution committee are, for the American Jewish relief committee, Cyrus L. Sulzberger, Arthur Lehman, Dr. Leo K. Frankel and Dr. Judah L. Magnes; for the central relief committee, Rabbi Meyer Berlin, Leon Kaminsky, Rabbi Aaron Teitelbaum, Abraham Schepper and Rabbi M. Z. Margolies; and for the people's relief committee, Alexander Kahn, Morris Rothenberg, Meyer Gillis, Adolph Held and B. C. Vlaeck. Major Löwenstein, chairman of the committee, made an exhaustive study during the war for the Red Cross, of conditions affecting the war orphans in the near east and by training and experience is especially qualified for the great work entrusted to him.

The plan for establishing a system of financial adoptions of Jewish war orphans is to be in charge of Miss Jessie Bogen, daughter of Dr. Boris D. Bogen, at the head of the committee's relief work in Poland, and who, herself, spent many months abroad. This plan is to follow the general lines of the fund for French war orphans and of the other funds created for the support of Serbian and Belgian war orphans.

by Internal Baths"

Mr. William W. Hughes of 2105 North St. St. Louis, Mo., writes to the Tavel Hygienic Institute.
"I bought your 'J.B.L. Cascade' seven months ago and already it has made me robust and healthy though I was badly run down because of a complication of troubles. This is in spite of the fact that I am 50 years old."

The J.B.L. Cascade cures the lower intestine, the entire length and keeps it always free of poisonous waste.

Thousands testify that Constipation, Indigestion, Stomach Troubles, Bitterness, Headache and all the many serious trouble which they cause are absolutely relieved and prevented by this Nature Treatment.

Your local druggist will be glad to show you the "J.B.L. Cascade" and explain its simple operation and will give you, free on request, an interesting little book by Dr. Tavel, "Tavel's New York Hygienic Institute's Internal Bathing for 25 Years in that city. 6 CHILDREN DIE IN MOVIE PANIC

Trampled to Death in New York Theatre—Cry of "Fire" Causes Wild Rush

Crusade to Bar Children From Theatres Unless Accompanied by Adults

NEW YORK: Nov. 15.—A crusade for stricter endorsement of the city ordinance forbidding motion picture proprietors to sell tickets to minors unless accompanied by parents or guardians, was started by the police today as a result of the panic in the Catherine theatre, on the lower East Side, last night, when six children were trampled to death in a panic after a false fire alarm.

Bernard Weinstock and Max Schwartz, proprietors of the Catherine theatre, and Joseph Polivnick, janitor, were arrested and held without bail for assignment. It is alleged that one of the front exits of the theatre was locked at the time.

Most of the 12 other youngsters seriously injured when older children, men and women crowded them in as they scrambled toward the exits, were in a critical condition today.

Smoke engorged by the janitor in starting a fire in the furnace led to the panic.

The little theatre was crowded to capacity and children filled most of the seats. When smoke appeared an elderly woman shouted, "My God! It is a fire!" Immediately loud wails arose, children began to cry. They jumped from their seats, jammed the aisles and fought for passage. The lights flickered out.

Youtiful cries attracted many residents. Camillo Brutto, who sells bananas from a push-cart on the Bowery, rushed to the scene. He darted into the theatre, attempted to shout down the cries. Falling, he saved those he could. Camillo carried more than 15 little ones to safety, then collapsed, overcome by smoke.

ALLEGED COLLECTIONS AT SUNDAY GAMES

Complaints alleging that money has been collected at Sunday baseball games and other sports held on the Sabbath and that many games are being played without a permit from the park department have been received by Supt. John W. Kieran. The state law, permitting Sunday sports, says that no money shall be collected at any sporting event staged on that day and that no games shall be held without a permit from the park board. The complaints have been referred to the park commission and will be considered at its next meeting.

LOWELL MUSICIAN'S UNION

The annual meeting of the Lowell Musician's Union was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the organization in Central street, and a feature of the meeting was the election of officers, which resulted as follows: Timothy F. McCarthy, president; John J. O'Brien, vice president; Harry E. Clay, secretary; Eugene Cote, sergeant-at-arms; Thomas J. O'Neil, William H. Looney, Charles B. Thompson, James C. Usher, John F. Moran, Henry J. Martel, and Edward A. Perry, executive board; John C. Carlson and George B. McNamee, trustees; for three and two years respectively. Frank F. Cashin, John F. McNamee, and Alfred Harnells acted as election officers.

WORK PROGRESSING ON AUDITORIUM

Despite the fact that William Dupreau, general contractor for the auditorium in East Merrimack street, has been delayed about seven weeks in his work because of the non-arrival of cement and brick, the job is progressing rapidly and Mr. Dupreau stated this morning that unless there is a delay in the shipment of the steel, he believes between now and New Year's he will be able to make up for lost time.

About 60 men are employed on the job and they are rushing things along. The work of demolishing the old garage on the corner of State and East Merrimack streets, which was started some time ago and dropped, has now resumed and it is expected within a short time the brick structure will have disappeared with the exception of the northern corner, which will be kept standing for an office.

The foundation for the auditorium is practically finished, while eight out of ten outside entrances have been dug.

The excavating is 90 per cent completed, while the brick work is about one-third along.

The job of setting the interior piers is about 85 per cent done, while 80 per cent of the granite composition have been paid.

The job of putting in the east stone is about 80 per cent done, and it is expected that it

Contractor Dupreau is kept busy responding to demands for work. He said at least 100 men apply for work practically every morning, but he is unable to employ all of them.

EARLY SUNDAY MORNING RAID

In gambling raid on rooms in the block at the corner of Palmer and Merrimack streets early Sunday morning, 11 young men, giving the following names: Odilon Richeote, Andrew Shaw, Samuel Rutherford, John F. Harvey, John Donnelly, John J. Name, Daniel Roche, William Hamilton, John J. Murphy, Burton W. Jones and Charles F. Riley, were arrested, booked at the station and released on bail for appearance in court this morning when they were fined $10 each. Riley, according to the police, jumped out a two story window to the ground when the officers raided the place, received injury to his ankle and is now confined in a hospital. He pleaded guilty through his counsel who paid his fine. In this raid officers Cooney, Moore, White and Clark seized gaming tables, chairs and other implements.

ENJOYED BIKE
Y.W.C.A. Girls Had Time of Their Lives Saturday—Enjoyed the Pleasures of the Great Outdoors

Forty-five girls of the several divisions of the Y.W.C.A. biked to Andrew Street Saturday afternoon to have a huge barbecue. After a huge meal was eaten, hands were warmed and frankfurts were roasted. The bike was in charge of Miss Evelyn Jerser. On their return, the girls enjoyed games and sports in the Y building, including all the features of the nature that the moonlight brought out the winter and Saturday afternoon is the time set for such sport.

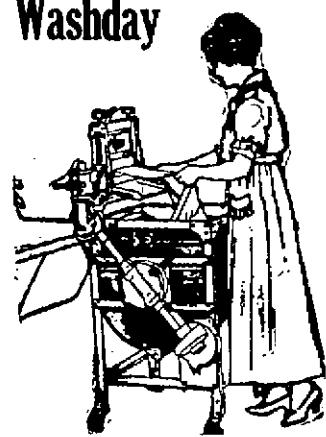

For all employed girls last Saturday night at the Y there will be recreation. It is planned to have an open, filled skating rink, given for all. The social hour at the association yesterday afternoon was enlivened by a fine viola concert. Tea was served by Miss Althea MacDonald, Miss Edith Gudges and Miss Janet MacDowell.

FILES EXPENSE ACCOUNT
Gardner W. Pearson, successful candidate for senator in the seventh mid-district, today filed his expense account with the election commissioners. It totals $54.45.

YOUR AIM IN LIFE

Someone asked Professor Agassiz once: "Why haven't you, with your wonderful knowledge of geology, become a wealthy man?" The reply was, "I have never had time to make money." With most of us it would be true if we said that we have never had, or have never tried to have, time for much of anything else except making money.

Tell and most of us do, day in and day out, for Uncle Sam's green-printed promises to pay. We perhaps divert our minds from the all-absorbing occupation for time enough to read the newspaper, to attend the movies, to discuss perfumingly political issues or the stock market, or, in the case of a modern woman, who has entered business life and is chasing the elusive dollar, there may be the mild relaxation of comparing notes about furs and turbelows.

One of the most wonderful pictures ever drawn by an artist shows St. Francis of Assisi, leaving his father's house, from which he had been cast out, utterly without human possessions. He was about to give up wealth and ease for a life of toil and service which was to transform a considerable part of the world and make his name and example blessed for all generations to come.

St. Francis' command to all of his disciples, when they first came to him, if they possessed wealth, was "Go sell all that thou hast and give to the poor." There is no particular need of most of us following this ascetic rule.

But it still remains true that if we have bound all of our powers up in the pursuit of wealth, we had better dump it all overboard, if we have any to dump, and start over again with a better rule of life.

The world has too much that is of absorbing interest, too much that needs to be done and someone to do it, for any man or woman to be of all their faculties down to the tasks of money grubbing.

Art and music stand ready to come to the gentle and inspiring ministration of all who will open their eyes to see and their ears to hear. Books—how much more of satisfaction for the man or woman who is alive to the beauties and realities of life there is in their simple touch than in gripping the fingers about greenbacks. Balm and refreshments for the wearied soul flow down through the ages in the stream of literature. And then think of the great out-doors world—the inexhaustible treasures of enjoyment and satisfaction that Nature holds out in abundance to those who take the time to really get acquainted with her.

But, oh, piffle says someone. I have got a job to hang on to; shoes to buy; a grocery bill to pay; a landlord or tax collector to satisfy; those things take all of my time and energy. Very likely—yes, possibly, very truly—and yet the cattle on a thousand hills have little to envy in you if that is the truth and the whole truth. It all depends upon your aim in life whether the be sordid or given to higher ideals.

CLEMENCEAU VS. FOCH

At the present time a violent controversy between General Foch and former Premier Clemenceau is raging in the press of France.

For some time past the people of France have become alarmed over the arrogance of Germany and the growing probability that she will eventually find a means of evading her responsibility to France and the payment of the indemnities provided for under the Versailles treaty. Clemenceau places the blame at the door of General Foch, to whom he has always shown a dislike. He claims that he did not approve of the armistice and that Germany should have been compelled to surrender unconditionally, whereas she was allowed to back away under the impression that she was not beaten and that the war was a draw. On the other hand General Foch shows that Germany realized and admitted her defeat and that England especially objected to further loss of life while the objects sought were attained through the armistice.

General Foch meets the criticism of his conduct with strong and indeed unanswerable arguments; but in spite of this, the public as usual in such cases, will be divided and in many cases deluded into believing what is not true.

Clemenceau is trying to cast all blame for the effect of subsequent conditions upon Foch, but in this his contentions are untenable. General Foch brought about a armistice that made it utterly impossible for Germany to resume hostilities with any hope of success. It then lay with the peace congress to frame the terms of peace that would compel Germany to indemnify France so far as that is possible for the ravages of the war and the fearful loss of life. It was Premier Clemenceau who represented France at the peace table and agreed to the terms of the treaty which General Foch demanded as a worthless check standing Germany on which you cannot roll a frame."

Surely that places the blame for the present disagreeing present of enforcing the terms of the peace treaty where it belongs, with Clemenceau. It is true that he yielded many points—many just demands in deference to England and America on the ground that they would sign a treaty mutually binding them to come to the defense of France in case she should again be attacked by Germany.

Because President Wilson was unable to make good his agreements, that treaty has fallen through and is not likely to be revived. That is one of the reasons why the French people feel disappointed over the windup of the war and the fading prospect of getting adequate reparation from Germany. It also explains why Clemenceau is trying to blame General Foch for the barren results of the peace treaty.

WHAT PAPA SAID

Two charming sisters are engaged to two brothers, and their neighbors have been interested in this dual love affair. The young girls live in the second flat of a house on the south side of the street, and the other day the elder sister was stopped in the street by the young son of the family who occupy the second flat in the house just opposite.

"O, Miss Miggs," said the boy, "my papa said last night that some one ought to tell you to pull down the blinds, 'cause if love is blind, the neighbors are not."

SHOWED GOOD JUDGMENT

"Bud Buckover didn't get no sense worth mentioning," said a citizen of Sandy Mush, Ariz. "Father evening got into a fuss with his wife, and 'cause suthin' or mother didn't suit him, he began to yell and slash around with his revolver. Then he booged out of the door and fired his gun in the air. Probly he uggered his' wife would think he'd shot himself, and be sorry. But, about that time, Hamp Sockery came in at the gate, and nacherly spousing Bud was shooting at him, pulled his gun and let drive, and shot Bud through the shoulder. If Bud had had any sense he'd a-recollid that a family row is like the seller said of charity—it begins at home, and on't to stay there."—Kansas City Star.

WHO DRIVES?

(Copyright, 1920, N.E.A.)
The car went a shaft through the blackness;

My little son rode at my side.

On my soul lay the weight of slackness;

My spirit was short of its pride.

I was sick of the constant insistence of everyday duties to do;

I was tired of the righteous resistance which confronted each morning anew.

And the night fell to fretting and storming;

As onward the motor car swept,

And then something human and warming.

Pressed close, as my little son slept,

Around pressed the blackness and bleakness.

Around swept the stress of the storm,

But a strength in me surged from his weakness

And the tide of my courage flowed warm.

Then again I felt ample and eager

For the struggle without, or within,

And till death should beset and be-lea-ger.

I felt I should battle—and win.

But I wondered—"When my night grows colder

And I sleep the long silences through,

Will my head find its rest on The Shoulder

And inspire the Great Tenderness, too?

"Shall I lie, all in silence and stark-ness? 'Till my ashes are scattered afar?

Or shall I dream on through the darkness?

And know who is guiding the car?"

—Edmund Vance Cooke.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

The season of gorgeous sunsets is here and the workers in The Sun editorial rooms have reserved seats on the grand stand to witness the almost unbelievably beautiful displays. From a western window Friday evening was spread out such a picture as makes the beholder long for the soul of an artist, and the colors and skill to place on permanent record the beauty so prodigally displayed. Perhaps, though, if we could imprison and retain such pictures they could become only commonplace. At the southwestern corner of the horizon, where the sun had just dipped out of sight, was a splotch of deepest crimson, and just above in lateral layers stretched banks of clouds that reflected all the colors of the spectrum. Gradually the crimson faded to a rosy pink and then to orange, and the higher clouds became opalescent. Against a soft background was outlined the silent sentinel of St. Patrick's church spire. A little farther off, the castle atop of city hall tower stood silhouetted as it ready for flight. From below the unwinking eye of the illuminated clock looked solemnly across the building tops. An autumn quiet brooded in the air. The noises of the streets did not reach to the Man About Town's aerial observation seat. The town seemed to be napping. It was like the quiet of which Wordsworth wrote with London in his mind:

"Never saw I never fell a calm so deep;

The red gildeth at its own sweet

Red God; the very houses seem asleep;

And all that mighty heart is lying still."

And, by the way, I believe that Lowell has one of the most attractive sky-lines in the country. Does anyone wish to argue this question?

About three hundred years ago to-day a great American institution—Monday washday—was established. We hear a good deal about the trials and hardships of the Pilgrim fathers. The Pilgrim mothers had theirs also. During the long voyage across the ocean they had been unable to cleanse the accumulating piles of soiled clothing. The little Mayflower could carry only sufficient supplies of fresh water to serve for drinking purposes. Salt water and soap have little affinity for each other, and an attempt to wash in the water of the ocean is more likely to fix the dirt than remove it. It is not strange, therefore, that one of the first things that the Pilgrim mothers thought of, after their small craft had rounded Race Point and come to anchor in the calm harbor of Provincetown, should have been washing. A spring was located on shore, and when Myles Standish and his doughty band, started on their tour of exploration up the capes, there was a great anastrophe made on the soiled clothes that had accumulated on the Mayflower. It happened that the day was Monday, and that is one of the reasons why successive generations of American women have followed the custom of washing on the second day of the week. It is interesting to compare the washing utensils used by the first-comers with the modern washing machines such as are turned out in Lowell. The Pilgrim mothers could not turn an electric switch and then sit down with a book of the latest fiction in hand to have their work done for them by machinery as the woman of today is pictured in the ads as doing. At present, in some of the older homes of Cape Cod, are to be found round barrels. These are good start casks with which go a heavy woolen "pounder" at the end of a. The clothes are put in the barrel in soapy water and the dirt removed by pounding. This is very probably an inheritance from the Pilgrim mothers.

Commission Agrees on Charter Draft

The Lowell charter commission has tentatively agreed on a draft of charter for this city to be presented to the public in written form within a few weeks. The commission has been in executive session for the past three or four weeks and has agreed upon these essential features of the new document:

A mayor, who shall be elected for two years at a salary of $5000 per year and shall appoint all heads of departments.

Contraction by the council will be necessary on all such appointments except those of city collector, city auditor, chief of the fire department and superintendent of police.

A council of 15 members, to be elected at large and to receive no salary.

After the first year they will be elected for two-year terms. The first year eight will be elected for two-year terms and seven for one-year terms.

A school committee, to consist of nine members, to be elected at large and to be unpaid. They will be elected for four weeks and has agreed upon these essential features of the new document:

1919 Death Rate Lowest on Record

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The 1919 death rate in the death registration area of continental United States, embracing 81 per cent of the total population, was shown in statistics made public today by the census bureau to be the lowest recorded in any one year. The rate was 12.8 per 1000 population, a drop of 5.1 per 1000 from the unusual high rate of 1918 resulting from the epidemic of influenza. The total number of deaths in 1919, was 1,096,436, of which 111,579 or 10.2 per cent were caused by heart disease, while tuberculosis resulted in 100,985 or 9.8 per cent. Deaths attributed to pneumonia totalled 105,218; influenza 84,113; nephritis and bright's disease 75,005, and cancer and other malignant tumors, 68,531. Delaware, Florida and Mississippi were added to the registration area in 1919, making a total of 33 states, the District of Columbia and 18 cities in non-registration states in the area.

ACCEPT RESIGNATION OF LOCAL PASTOR

At a meeting yesterday of the Westminster United Presbyterian church at which deep emotion was in evidence, the resignation of Rev. Samuel A. Jackson, as pastor of the church, was accepted. Mr. Jackson urged the acceptance of his resignation giving as a reason that he believed that in the pastorate of a church in Brooklyn he was going to find labor that was his duty to enter.

Mr. Jackson has been in Lowell seven years. During that time 150 new members have been added to the church, and the various activities of the congregation have been built up into a prosperous condition. The work of canceling a debt of $17,000 has been completed.

The departing pastor is to leave Lowell about December 1.

It is stated that rumor that the church was to unite with another church of the same denomination is without foundation.

LONDON PAPER'S VIEW OF IRISH SITUATION

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Hugh Martin in a despatch from Dublin to the Daily News says:

"It has been my duty to watch at close quarters the unfolding of this drama, which, in its implications and results, may well prove the grand world moulding tragedie of the human race.

"And now as I leave this theatre a little while to share in my own country's celebration of the victory of the idea of freedom, what else can I do, as an Englishman, except to bow my head in shame.

"The people of England would share in that shame if they had lived through this three months on Irish soil. It is an abiding disgrace to the press of England—a crime against truth and liberty—that so few Englishmen do know. Yet, it only a few Englishmen share this sense of shame on Armistice day, the work of some of us will not have been thrown away."

RED CROSS READY TO DO IRISH RELIEF WORK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Dr. Livingston Farrand, chairman of the Central committee, American Red Cross, in a statement here said no definite plans had been formulated to extend relief work to Ireland.

"The American Red Cross views with deep sympathy and solicitude suffering and distress in Ireland as well as in other parts of the world," he said. "Following its regular procedure it has requested of its representatives in Europe a report on the situation both as to the need and the practicability of American Red Cross assistance. Such a report has not yet been received.

"Further, there has not come to the American Red Cross from the government of the United States nor from any government concerned nor from the League of Red Cross societies, to some of which agencies the American Red Cross under its practice would look for the initiative in this matter, any intimation that conditions call for the immediate offer of such assistance as the American Red Cross might be expected under its charter to render.

CHRONIC CATARRH

Follow Repeated Colds When Blood Is Impure

Your body suffering from a cold does not properly attend to digestion and elimination. As result, your blood becomes impure, it inflames the mucous membranes and brings about that condition in which chronic catarrh occurs and on which it depends.

Purify your blood, make it clean, by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and your bowels are not healthfully active, take Hood's Pills. Those medicines have relieved, and prevented thousands of cases of chronic catarrh. Economy is one of the strong points of Hood's Sarsaparilla—100 doses in a bottle. Why not get it today?—Adv.

YOUNG MAN KILLED AT B. & M. CAR SHOPS

While repairing the motor of an electric crane at the Boston & Maine car shops in Billerica yesterday morning, Albert Thibodeau, aged 19 years and residing at 8 Cambridge street, was pinned between the carriage of the crane and the low girders of the boiler room of the plant. Death was almost instantaneous.

in an endeavor to locate the trouble. As this operation proceeded the carriage of the crane swung about in such a way that Thibodeau's body became wedged between the low girders of the boiler room and the carriage of the machine. His chest and neck were severely crushed and the unfortunate young man passed away before assistance reached him. The body was viewed by Medical Examiner T. B. Smith and later removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers J. P. O'Donnell & Sons. Deceased is survived by his mother, Mrs. Jennie (Courtney) Thibodeau and a sister, Miss Rosa Thibodeau.

has now been issued. Like all the recent conventions of the congress this will be held in the New Willard hotel, Washington, D. C., the dates being Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the eighth, ninth and tenth of December.

While the entire program has not been announced, it is evident that there will be no lack of interesting addressers and that an unusual number of important questions will be presented for discussion. Decided differences of opinion exist on certain subjects and some live, snappy debates may be expected.

Everybody knows that waterways are very much less used in the United States than they are in Europe. Maj.

Gen. Lansing H. Beach, chief of Engineers, U. S. army, has some very waterways as to the reasons why waterways are so little used in this country and the things that must be done before the situation can be changed.

The national rivers and harbors congress took the lead in securing the important provisions for the benefit of waterways and water transportation which are included in the transportation act. Under one of these provisions there has been created the division of inland and coastwise waterways service, of which Brig. Gen. W. D. Connor is chief. Among other things this division has charge of the government barge lines on the Mississippi and Wabash rivers and the New York
State canals.

It is not secret that most old-time steamboat men think that the tow-boats which have been built for use on these barge lines, all of which are of the "tunnel" type, will prove to be disastrous failures. Some of the new waterways are so little used in this country and the things that must be done before the situation can be changed.

From the various quarters demands are being made for still more radical changes in the methods of handling the improvement of waterways. Some urge the creation of a new department of public works, and others the appointment of a waterways commission.
Some of the advocates of these two plans want to take away what should be done and from the army engineers, which is to be composed of 35 members.

It seems there is still to be a rivers and harbors committee, although
it will not frame rivers and harbors
bills. Hon. S. Wallace Dempsey, M.C.,

whose home is at Lockport, N. Y., has been a member of the committee for several years and it is understood that he will be its chairman in the next congress. His address on "Future River and Harbors Bills" will no doubt clear up a number of points which are now obscure.

All active workers for the improvement of waterways are familiar with the methods followed for 30 years or more in the formulation of rivers and harbors bills, but mighty few of them have any idea how it is to be done in the future. Just before the close of the last session the house passed a resolution which puts all power to frame appropriation bills into the hands of a single committee, which is to be composed of 35 members.

It seems there is still to be a rivers and harbors committee, although
it will not frame rivers and harbors
bills. Hon. S. Wallace Dempsey, M.C.,

the army engineers to be expended according to their judgment.

There is a general impression that among other changes that will be made by the administration that will come into power on the fourth of next March, will be a change in the method of dealing with the improvement of rivers and harbors. If press reports of addresses made by President-elect Harding are correct, he believes a change is desirable and is inclined to favor the appointment of a commission.

Further study may change his opinion, however, and a discussion of the various plans proposed should be an interesting and valuable feature of the convention.

LOWELL Woman Says It's Grand.
Mrs. Brackett Says Tanlac
Overcame Troubles and Increased Weight 12 Pounds.

Still another link is added to the long chain of evidence regarding the merits of Tanlac in the case of Mrs. Emma Brackett, residing at 98 John St., Lowell, Mass., whose increase in weight, health and strength was related by her a few days ago. Mrs. Brackett said:

"Tanlac has not only relieved me of two years suffering, but has actually built me up twelve pounds in weight and I can truthfully say I am now feeling better than I have in years.
Two years ago I had influenza which left me in an awful run down and weak condition. I had no appetite, and couldn't digest what little I forced myself to eat. After meals gas would form and blow me up swiftly, causing sharp pains in my chest and such dizzy spells I could hardly stand up. I had to be taking something for constipation all the time, and had such severe headaches it seemed that I would go wild. Many nights I was so nervous I lay awake until almost morning, as restless and insatiable I actually trembled all over, and then got up feeling as bad as when I went to bed, if not worse."

"But I was really surprised at the improvement in my condition after I took the first bottle of Tanlac, and now I am feeling just fine. My appetite is so good and my stomach is in such fine condition I can eat anything I want without suffering the least bit from digestion. I never have a headache, dizziness spells or, in fact, troubles of any kind, and I sleep like a child every night. I must say Tanlac is the grandest of all medicines!"

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Greens Drug Store, Merrimack square, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative and by the leading druggist in every town. Adv.

DOUBLE MILITARY
FUNERAL YESTERDAY

Over 2500 people attended the double funeral services, which were held at St. Jean Baptiste church yesterday afternoon for Priv. William H. Cloutier, son of Mrs. Agnes Cloutier of 485 Moody street and Priv. Joseph April, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isidore April of 223 Salem street, both of whom died in France while in the service of Uncle Sam. The body of Private Cloutier arrived in this city last Wednesday, while the remains of Priv. April reached Lowell Saturday morning. Both bodies were taken to the C.M.A.C. parlors in Pawtucket street and arrangements were made for a double funeral to be held yesterday afternoon.

The double funeral cortege left the rooms of the C.M.A.C. at 1:30 o'clock and headed by firing squad from the American Legion and a large delegation of veterans of the world war, who acted as an escort to the two automobile hearses, wended its way down Merrimack street to the church, where a solemn Liberia was chanted at two o'clock, the officiating clergymen being Rev. Augustin Graton, O.M.I., assisted by Rev. Charles Denzot, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. L. N. Bachand, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. The large church was filled to the doors and many who were unable to gain admittance remained on the steps during the services.

An augmented choir under the direction of Joseph Paradis, who also presided at the organ rendered perfect's harmonized "Libera," the solo being sustained by J. E. Nollet, Adolphe Brasseur, E. J. Laroche and Frank Courdeau. At the close of the service Mr. Nollet sang Schubert's "Farewell." Seated within the sanctuary were Rev. E. J. Turcotte, O.M.I., pastor; Rev. Guttaudouine, O.M.I., and Rev. Joseph A. Bolduc, O.M.I.

From the church the funeral cortege wended its way to St. Joseph's cemetery, where the bodies were buried in their respective family lots. During the march to the church and cemetery funeral dirges were played on the drums by Robert Letell and Frederick Powell and at the graves voices were fired by the firing squad and "Taps" was blown by Bugler William Carl and Emily Lamoureux.

The bearers for Priv. Cloutier were Ernest J. Brown, Raymond Deschenes, Fred Deschenes, Arthur Perley, Oscar Allard, Harry C. Wilfred Therrien and Louis O'Neill, while those for Priv. April were Thomas Samboise, Joseph Breton, Camille Bovet, Jos. Bergeron, Victor Maher, Arthur Boncher and Armand Belanger, all veterans of the world war, who were attired in their uniforms and who marched on each side of the bearers.

The firing squad and delegation of war veterans was commanded by Maj. James A. Powers. The squad consisted of the following: Joseph Coughlin, Edward U. Sullivan, Melvin F. Whitcomb, Charles Bourque, W. E. Miller, Frank Smith and Walter Bostic. The communal prayers at the graves were read by Rev. Joseph A. Bolduc, O.M.I. The funeral arrangements for Priv. Cloutier were in charge of Undertakers Amédée Archambault & Sons, while those for Priv. April were under the direction of Undertaker Joseph Attib.

MEETING YESTERDAY
AT C. M. A. C. HALL

A general meeting of French-speaking male voters of this city was held yesterday afternoon at the C.M.A.C. hall. The meeting, which was largely attended, was held under the auspices of the executive committee and was presided over by the chairman, Onepine Tremblay. A feature of the meeting was the election of officers for the executive committee for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows: Onepine Tremblay, chairman; Amédée Ducharme, secretary; Ernest Verville, treasurer; Joseph A. Plante, Rosalie Leclerc, William H. Vincent and F. X. Bostader, directors.

In the course of the meeting the chairman of the committee gave a lengthy report of the doings of the organization during the past year and routine business was transacted.

The sum of $100 was voted to the permanent committee on naturalization, the money to be used to defray part of the expenses of the work of canvassing the city to ascertain how many young men and young women among the French-speaking people of this city are eligible to have their names on the check list. It was also decided to call a general meeting of the French-speaking male and female voters of the city in the near future, and it was announced that prominent out-of-town speakers will be secured for the occasion.

Thousands Face Death in Rush for Oil

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 15.—Held back by a cordon of mounted police, thousands of persons are rushing it in camps at Peace River Crossing, awaiting opportunity to make a 1500-mile dash at Port Norman, on MacKenzie river, where an oil strike was made recently. Because of weather conditions, the authorities fear many will lose their lives if permitted to proceed before the snow lifts and the ice goes out.

Mobs Attack Salvation Army

TOKIO, Nov. 16.—Anti-Christian mobs twice broke up Salvation army jubilee celebrations here yesterday. Gangs of students dispersed an open air gathering, while a mob invaded an indoor meeting, tore down the decorations and silenced the speakers. Officials of the Salvation Army declare they believe the disturbances were fomented by Buddhists.

PLAN BRIDGE REPAIRS

Mayor Thompson Calls Meeting to Decide on Central Bridge Matter

At a conference at city hall this afternoon, at which were present representatives of the city government and the local streetcar company, it was decided to put into effect immediately plans for the temporary repair of Central bridge, so that street car traffic may be resumed at once. That portion of the bridge roadway under the tracks of the railway company will be repaired at once. In the meantime, the engineering department will work on plans for the permanent repair of the structure to be put into effect next year.

Upon his return from a short vacation this morning Mayor Perry D. Thompson immediately made arrangements to call together all the officials interested in the present situation, including Commissioners Dennis A. Murphy of the highways department, City Engineer Stephen Kearney and Manager Thomas Lees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co.'s local district. The mayor knew nothing about the closing of the bridge to electric car and other heavy traffic until he returned to Lowell Saturday evening. He said this morning that he had been told that the structure was not in the best of condition, but he was not aware that there was any immediate danger.

The municipal council will be called upon at its meeting tomorrow to consider whatever plan of procedure is outlined at this afternoon's meeting and to appropriate sufficient money to put the bridge in suitable condition for the resumption of traffic. City Engineer Kearney is in favor of substituting a concrete roadway for the present wooden paving, but it is highly improbable that this suggestion will be carried out until warmer weather comes, should it meet with approval.

The one desideratum at present is to get the street cars again running over the bridge and thus relieve the inconvenience that has been caused the thousands who have been in the custom of riding across it daily.

World War Piling Booth

Secretary John B. Curtin of the home rule committee attempted today to get city officials interested in the project of utilizing the piling booth at the junction of Bridge and First streets as a waiting room while the present inconvenience lasts. He points out that the booth is ideally located for the purpose and is idle all the time.

He sees no reason why the city and the railway company cannot enter into an agreement relative to the heating of the booth and throw it open to the public. The railway company has placed a car at this spot to be used by passengers while they are waiting for their cars, but Mr. Curtin believes that this will not be satisfactory if the bridge is to be kept closed to traffic any length of time.

MRS. MACSWINEY TO SAIL FOR U.S. NOV. 24

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Florence MacSwiney, widow of the lord mayor of Cork, today cabled the commission of 100 investigating the Irish question that she had obtained a passport and would sail Nov. 21 for the United States to testify in the hearings to be held by the commission.

INSURANCE POLICY ON SUICIDE PAYABLE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—An insurance policy on the life of a person who commits suicide is payable if all conditions of the policy are complied with, the supreme court ruled today, in sustaining lower court decrees in a suit brought against the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company by Isabel H. Johnson, beneficiary under a policy obtained by her husband.

The company withheld payment on the ground that it was contrary to public policy to pay indemnity on the life of a suicide.

Counsel for the company contended that the courts had held repeatedly that neither the insured nor the beneficiary should do anything to "wrongfully accelerate the maturity of the policy."

EXTEND PROBE OF BUILDING TRUST

Investigation of All New York City Building Contracts is Ordered

Whole Community Said to be in Grip of Monopolies and Combinations

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—After a conference today with the legislative committee investigating the "building trust," the board of estimate authorized a public investigation into all city building contracts and "into any combinations or conspiracies in connection with same."

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee, said the inquiry was "merely beginning."

"We find the whole community in the grip of monopolies and combinations, from the lowest to the highest," he said. "Many villages, cities, towns and cities, all departments, states and businesses, manufacturing, in the grip of labor are practicing blackmail and extortion on people engaged in building enterprises."

He added that there was evidence to show that 75 per cent of the city school contracts had been affected by disclosures already made.

SEIZED BY D'ANNUNZIO

One of the Zones Under Discussion in Adriatic Negotiations Occupied

PIUME, Nov. 13.—Occupation by Gabriele d'Annunzio's forces of one of the zones under discussion in the recent Adriatic negotiations between Italy and Jugoslavia was announced today by d'Annunzio's staff. The regular Italian troops were withdrawn from this zone, it is stated, and the positions occupied by the regency forces are being fortified.

He sees no reason why the city and the railway company cannot enter into an agreement relative to the heating of the booth and throw it open to the public. The railway company has placed a car at this spot to be used by passengers while they are waiting for their cars, but Mr. Curtin believes that this will not be satisfactory if the bridge is to be kept closed to traffic any length of time.

ROME, Nov. 11.—Italian newspapers, with the exception of nationalist organs, declare that almost all the people of Italy have greeted the agreement between this country and Jugoslavia relative to the Adriatic with relief. Although it is painful to Italians to renounce Italian Dalmatia, the peace is viewed as dignified and victorious. In the meantime many young men are leaving different parts of Italy for Fiume. This appears to confirm reports that d'Annunzio is preparing several expeditions. On the other hand, it is known that Admiral Millo, head of the d'Annunzian naval service, is satisfied with the agreement and is not disposed to join in new adventures.

Suit in Superior Court to Secure Accounting for Miss Puffer's Money Gifts

Outcome of Alleged Romance of Arthur G. Hazard and Ayer Woman

As an outcome of the unsuccessful attempt of Arthur G. Hazard and Mabel E. Puffer, both of Ayer, to marry in Concord, N. H., in June, 1919, trial was begun in the jury-waived session of the superior court today, of an equity suit to secure the return of money and property alleged to have been transferred by Miss Puffer to Hazard previous to the visit to Concord, Judge Patrick H. Keating was on the bench.

The complaint is made by Michel G. Puffer and her guardian, George L. Wilson of Ayer. The defendants are Arthur G. Hazard, his mother, Mary J. Hazard; his sisters, Bertha and Annie Roland; his brother, William Hazard; John H. Eret of Ayer, who furnished hall for Hazard; Daniel G. Parsons, clerk of court with whom half money is alleged to have been deposited; William H. Lusk, attorney of Boston; and Cornelius J. O'Neill, attorney of Lowell.

It was alleged in the bill of complaint that Miss Puffer was of unsound mind at the time the alleged transfers of property were made.

FLAYS PLAN TO EXCLUDE JAPS

Former Premier Calls Move Act of Infidelity to Japanese-American Friendship

Says if Appeals to America's Sense of Morality Failed Only Force Remained

TOKIO, Nov. 15 (By Associated Press)—Marquis Okuma, former premier, addressing a meeting today, strongly attacked the plan to exclude Japanese from America by treaty. He said that hitherto immigration had been restricted under a voluntary agreement because it was realized that restriction was prejudicial to Japan's prestige. The present effort to make restriction statutory, he said, was an act of infidelity to Japanese-American friendship.

He expressed the opinion that Washington would be able to stop California measures by enlisting public opinion of the whole country. If Japan's appeal to America's sense of international morality failed, he continued, only force remained. Japan sincerely desired a solution of the problem, he concluded, fearing that otherwise the question would lead up to an outbreak of self-sacrificing patriotism for which the Japanese people are noted.

Clashes at Polls

There were a few minor clashes at the polls between supporters of Premier Venizelos and the opposition. They were promptly dispersed by streams from fire department hoses, which sprinkled the Venizelists and adherents of Demetrios Gounaris, former premier and opposition leader. All meetings had been forbidden since Friday, but newspapers carried on the night up till yesterday.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Red Cross Team Workers Began Making Their First Returns Today

Red Cross membership campaign team workers began making their first returns today in the drive which opened last Thursday and is to continue until Nov. 25. Although no definite figures will be available until this evening, the early returns indicated a fairly general response to the 1920 roll call, but not as extensive as in past years.

Campaign Chairman Fred F. Hayward called upon his assistants to make whatever returns they had at the Red Cross headquarters at St. Merrimack street some time today, but up to early afternoon they had come in only slightly. The great bulk of them was expected late in the day or in the early evening.

Chairman Hayward is concentrating his efforts at present on the residential sections. It is believed, judging from the experiences of past years, that there are hundreds of families ready to "sign up" if asked, but for some reason or other do not take the initiative in becoming members for 1921.

It is again pointed out that all the materials necessary to sign up new members or renew the memberships of old ones are available at the Red Cross headquarters in Merrimack street and those who have not yet been reached by team workers are asked to step in, pay their dollar and become part of the great relief organization.

Lowell's quota in the present drive is 16,000 but the campaign officials are in hopes of exceeding that mark. Out of a population of 112,000 it is pointed out that more than 16,000 people should be able and willing to contribute $1 for a year's membership in the organization which is doing so much for former service men and their families in the present post-war period.

A complete campaign organization to cover practically every trade and profession in the city is at work bringing in new members, but in order that the city may show forth its capacity strength, those who have not been approached and who may possibly be overlooked are asked either to hunt up the team worker in his or her district or else send a dollar to the campaign headquarters at St. Merrimack street.

ARRESTED HERE FOR FITCHBURG POLICE

Mac E. Rogers, of this city, arrested here some time ago and found guilty in the local court on several counts of breaking and entering in department stores and who appealed his sentence of two months in the house of correction and was fined $150 on the same case in superior court, was arrested this morning on a warrant from the police of Fitchburg and detained at the local station. The warrant charges theft from a firm in Fitchburg. The explanation given by the police is that at the time the defendant was arrested in the local court the police got lots of goods in her home which they could not identify as belonging to any merchants of this city, but which they suspected were stolen. Since her case was disposed of she has been seeking restoration of the unidentified goods and this morning when she entered the station to ask for restoration of certain clothes the Fitchburg warrant was served on her.

ELECTION IN GREECE 41 COUNTRIES REPRESENTED

Victory Claimed by Premier Venizelos—Actual Returns

Only Meagre

ATHENS, Nov. 15.—Victory in the Greek elections held yesterday was claimed today by Premier Venizelos. Actual returns, however, were meagre. Throughout the campaign, which was conducted with unparalleled bitterness, the premier was the storm centre.

The issue of the campaign was the return of former King Constantine to his throne, from which he was deposed during the war. After the death of King Alexander three weeks ago, the throne was offered his younger brother, Prince Paul, who in answer virtually demanded that the Greek people pass upon the question whether King Constantine should come back from exile. Only in the event the people decided against Constantine and would not accept Prince George, eldest son of Constantine, he said, would he consider accepting the throne.

Premier Venizelos led the forces opposing the return of Constantine, and it is succeeded in the elections, it is conceded he will have a deciding voice in the selection of the next sovereign.

Opening of the first assembly of the League of Nations was announced at 11 o'clock, this morning by the ringing of all the church bells in Geneva.

Just before that hour a procession made up of Swiss officials marched from the city hall to the Hall of the Reformation, where the delegates were assembling. The parades marched through streets bedecked with the flags of virtually all the nations of the world with the exception of Germany, Austria and Turkey. Never before in the history of the world, it is believed, had the flags of so many nations flown together.

Only a few American flags were noted. The Swiss national and cantonal ensigns predominated in the decorations.

GENEVA, Nov. 15.—Paul Hymans, of Belgium, was elected president of the League of Nations by the assembly of the league at its first session here today. He received 35 out of 41 votes. He is a former foreign minister of Belgium and head of the Belgian delegation in the assembly of the league.

GENEVA, Nov. 15.—Determination to meet intricate problems in world affairs and to lay firmly the foundation stones of the League of Nations, was evident in the demeanor of delegates of 41 countries when they convened here today for the first session of the assembly of the league. Although differences of opinion have already arisen relative to the Danzig question, the makeup of the commission on mandates, the protection of racial and religious minorities in Balkan states and the admission to the League of Germany and some of her former allies, there was today an evident disposition on the part of all the delegates to meet every situation with fairness and open-minded and to endeavor to reach decisions which would be acceptable.

OF CORP. QUINN

The funeral of Corp. Edward F. Quinn, the Lowell soldier who died in France, Oct. 8, 1918, took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the chapel of Undertakers James P. O'Donnell & Sons in Market street. Full military honors were paid the deceased soldier by comrades veterans of the world war and other members of various organizations with which he had been associated.

At 1:45 members of Lowell Post, American Legion; Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, the Broadway Social and Athletic club, the C.Y.M.L., St. Patrick's Holy Name society and the Liberty Square associates assembled at their respective quarters and marched to the O'Donnell undertaking rooms. Heading the Knights of Columbus delegation was the Lowell Cadet band. The flag-draped casket had been placed in the middle of the street and members of the various organizations marched past it with heads uncovered. The ceremony was most impressive to the large number of onlookers who viewed it from the sidewalk.

After this part of the ceremony the casket was placed in the hearse by the following bearers, all overseas men: Joseph Sheehy, John McCrindle, M. Andrew Molloy and John Frawley, representing the K. of C., and John J. Scully, William Furey, Edward Hines and Stephen Hession, representing the C.Y.M.L.

The funeral procession was then formed and marched to St. Patrick's cemetery. The procession was headed by the Cadet band and a large K. of C. delegation, many of the members turning out in uniform. They followed the other organizations. At the grave the officiating clergymen were Rev. Francis L. Keenan, chaplain of the C.Y.M.L.; Rev. Joseph A. Curtis, chaplain of St. Patrick's Holy Name society; and Rev. Daniel J. Haffen, chaplain of the Knights of Columbus.

A quartet from the Knights of Columbus, composed of James E. Donnelly, William F. Thornton, Timothy P. Hogan and Thomas A. Delmore, sang appropriate hymns. A firing squad from the American Legion, commanded by Elf B. Hart, fired a volley and the ceremonies ended with "Taps" sounded by Ernest Ready and Frank Merritt. This latter ceremony was most impressive, with one bugler standing near the grave and the other quite distance away, giving the effect of an echo.

WAR VETERANS

At the morning service of the First Baptist church yesterday, the pastor, Rev. Edward Babcock, welcomed the veterans of the world war and spoke interestingly about the conflict and the American Legion, his remarks being in part as follows:

"America entered the world war with highest motives, not seeking extension of territory or commerce. War is always wrong, never right. America went forth as the policeman to put down evil. Let the American Legion always stand for the same high ideals. Then it will be a blessing to America and the world. We selected our armies on the basis of patriotism. God speed the day when there will be no hyphenated Americans. Let the Legion stand for that. Fortune it is for the world that Germany failed. Let the American flag fly for international justice. I never voted for President Wilson but he is a great man. It will be written in history that he forced other nations to his idealism, at least so far as to express it on paper. He who seeks to brew trouble between countries that have been allies is a traitor to the country. England is the greatest friend America has. We never could have won the world war without England. We never could have put our armies into Europe without England's armies. He who tries to make trouble between America and England is an enemy to his country. Jesus Christ came to bring peace. I want the American Legion to stand for everlasting peace between America and her allies. Had the American flag been torn down and trampled on in England as the British flag was in New York recently we would have demanded an apology, but England, knowing that we have troubles of our own, has not said a word. She earnestly wants us to know that she is our friend. Let us do all we can to maintain and preserve peace."

At the evening service Rev. Mr. Babcock delivered his first sermon in a series, which he will give during the winter months, his topic being "The Head of the House."

PROTEST MEETING

Over 200 people attended the protest meeting against the reduction of wages in Lowell, which was held yesterday afternoon in the Greenfield school. The meeting was presided over by Thomas J. Moran, general organizer for the United Textile Workers of America and was addressed by Francis A. Wainstock, president of the Trades and Labor council and Horace Riviere of Montreal, general organizer for the U.T.W. of America.

FINE FOR RHEUMATISM

Musterole Loosens Up Those Stiff Joints—Drives Out Pain

You'll know why thousands use Musterole once you experience the glad relief it gives.

Get a jar at once from the nearest drug store. It is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Brings ease and comfort while it is being rubbed on!

Musterole is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Millions of jars are used annually for bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosty feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

Ready-to-Wear Week

We have one week each season for Ready-to-Wear Week to give extra publicity to our fast growing Ready-to-Wear Department and to gain extra customers to the legion of Lowell's fashionable women who appreciate the

BETTER SERVICE

BETTER STYLES

BETTER QUALITIES and BETTER VALUES

This year we are in a better position than ever before to demonstrate values that are wonderful, owing to some of our manufacturers needing to turn their merchandise of the better kind into cash.

SHOP HERE THIS WEEK FOR THE BEST VALUES OBTAINABLE

COATS, WRAPS, DRESSES, BLOUSES, SPORT SKIRTS, PETTICOATS, CHILDREN'S COATS, SUITS, SWEATERS, FLANNELETTE NIGHT
ROBES, CHILDREN'S UNDERWEAR, CHILDREN'S DRESSES

We Carry Better Because We Have a Standard and We Will Not Reduce the Quality.

COATS and WRAPS

AT SPECIAL PRICES

$25.00 to $135.00

Four hundred beautiful wraps and coats, made of the finest materials in America.

Such as olando, marvilla, kamasharah, servilla, corde val, chamoistyne, vale de chine, bokhara, chammo, bolivia and fine velours.

Many of them with wonderful furs, and styles that are absolutely different. Many of our own garments at reduced prices and many bought at a big reduction. Worth $35.00 to $165.00.

SUITS

to $98.50

We are showing phenomenal values this week in fine hand tailored suits, made of the finest materials, all silk lined suits that were made to sell for $20.00 to $35.00 more, and every suit in our entire stock at tremendous reductions.

There are values we think you will consider bargains for a year to come.

Our Dress Business Has Been a Revelation Beyond Our Expectations

and today we have a department exclusively for dresses that can be equalled in few cities in New England for large assortments, beautiful styles, wonderful values every week in the year.

NEW AFTERNOON DRESSES in Minuette, Tricolette, Tricotine, Duvetyn, Chammo, Velour, Velvets, Velveteens, Chiffon Velvets, Serge. Better dresses for the Misses, 16 to the matured women that wear a size 50. For this week special values prevail and we have made some wonderful buys from fine manufacturers' stocks.

$15, $18.75, $25, $29.50, $32.50, $35, $39.50 $45 up to $98.50

We have values this week that will be remembered for a long time

Big Reductions in Sport Skirts

Early this season we waited for the drop in prices in Sport Skirts, and when we did buy we were able to sell all wool plaid and striped skirts at the original wholesale prices—They were real bargains at $16.50, $19.00 and $25.00, but the manufacturers were over-loaded on materials and another crash has come, and now we can buy them at 25% lower, so we have reduced our stock for a Grand Clean-up Sale. Priced—

$10.75 and $16.75

for our three hundred beautiful all wool plaid skirts, made by the best makers we know, from the best materials obtainable; all sizes. We think these prices are below any we will quote for the next year for like quality.

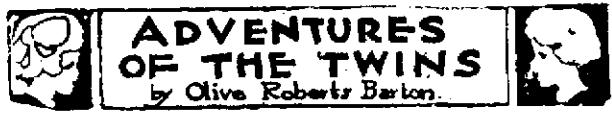

Sweaters

Two hundred Tuxedo Tie-Back and Novelty Sweaters, in the most wanted shades, navy and black, also black and white, navy and white, and tan. All the newest link and link styles—not a sweater but what is new since Sept. 1st. But we want to advertise and make new customers for this department, as well as the others, so we have marked regular $5.98, $6.98 and $7.98 Sweaters

$3.98

We are not anxious to sell these at this price, but we will have plenty of them for this week, even if we have to buy more and sell them at less than cost.

THE MUSHROOM'S RIDDLE

Of course there was dancing at Mr. Scarecrow's masquerade party, and everybody had loads of fun. Cobby Coon had a hard time, however, finding a partner. And so did Wise Weasel and Snooty Skunk and Marty Mink. You see, it was this way. Along in the fall when the harvesting was over and the sweet corn gone 'n all, and Farmer mother had persuaded him to be gallant, before he left home, and to be sure and behave his manners. So, after thinking it all over, Flop decided that he just wouldn't. And he didn't. But they had a good time, anyhow, even Santa Snake's boy, who had rubber bands snipped all over him, and who had come as a string of sausages. They had nut-cracking and fortunes

THEY HAD NUT-CRACKING AND BOBBING FOR APPLES, AND RIDDLES.

Smith had cooped up his chickens for the cold weather. Cobby's appetite began to bother him. Besides, you know, cold weather makes one hungry as a hunter.

So it was perfectly natural, wasn't it, that Cobby, being large for his age and quite full grown, might make a mistake when he was dancing with Chip Chipmunk's sister, and absolutely mistake her for a nice juicy carrot or sweet turnip and swallow her, "hido, hido 'n all?" The same with Flop Field Mouse. He was awfully afraid to ask Mr. Owl to dance, even though his

Best Dressed Senator

On a wall in his shop, Gettum has hung a clipping from a Washington paper, referring to Harding as "the best dressed man in the senate." Gettum takes some pride in that.

The president-elect, Gettum says, is conservative in his dress, preferring carefully cut clothing of the very finest materials. His measurements are carefully on file, so that even in ordering the "trousseau" Harding simply sent in the list.

Lancaster, Pa.—"I was weak and run down, had pains in my head, back and stomach all the time, and bearing down pains. I had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me, so my mother got me to try it again, and I am now feeling better than I have for years. We were in a married sixteen years and had no children, but now we have a fine big boy, and we always call him our 'Pinkham' boy. The doctor was afraid of my case as I was 41 years old when the boy was born, but I came through all right. You can use this as a testimonial if you wish and I will certainly write to any one who writes to me about it." —Mrs. MARGARET G. HANERCAZ, 320 Howard Avenue, Lancaster, Pa.

Good health during maternity is a most important factor to both mother and child, and many letters have been received, telling of health restored during this trying period by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

IN POLICE COURT

Sentence for Assault and Battery—Other Cases

For assault and battery on Rosella Allard in the Merrimack mills on November 8, Joseph Lemelin was found guilty in police court today and sentenced to three months in the house of correction. He was also put under $300 bonds to keep the peace for six months. Defendant appealed and was put under $300 bonds for the superior court. Lemelin claimed that he visited the mill to look for work and that he attacked the complainant because he alleged she had been spreading stories about him.

Joseph A. Campbell, 22, of South street, John J. Cryan, 16, of Appleton street, and James J. Doyle, aged 16, of Marion street, arraigned for breaking and entering and intent to commit burglary from certain camps at Lakeview, were put over until Friday morning under $300 bail each. Doyle will appear at the juvenile session. "There is one complaint against the defendant now, but the police allege other complaints will be made. They were arrested by Officers E. J. Connors, William Kennedy and Holt, the latter of Tyngsboro. It is said that the boys occupied camps at Lakeview near the two which were burned Saturday night and that the police are holding them on suspicion in connection with the fire.

Patrick McMahon was committed to the house of correction for two months on a charge of drunkenness and two other old cases were re-continued. The probation officer released 10 boys offenders for drunkenness over the weekend.

Charles Santos and Anthony Silva were found guilty of disturbing the peace and fined $5 each.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By the Theatre's Own Press Agents

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"Alexandrin," king of syncopation, will put the throbs into every lover of modern music who goes to the B. F. Keith theatre, this week. Coming from the metropolis of the country, where syncopated music is given at its very best, Alexandria brings with him a reputation of the first water. And not only does he syncopate with instruments, but he has other means that will catch the fancy of the crowd.

A little woman playing in an obscure stock company was Jean Chase, two years ago. Possessing some of the personal attributes which made Eddie Burke so famous, Miss Chase struck the fancy of a manager who had wandered into the theatre to pass a stormy evening. He signed her up at once and with her company, she is now seen in "Peggy's Wedding Night," a delicately written little comedy production.

They called him "big" Ed Morton when he was a policeman on the Quaker City force. He isn't a whit smaller in stature now, but he is far better known. Morton manages to pay a visit about once a year, and each time he brings with him a new batch of popular songs. They all have the quality of popular music to them, but their strong feature is their timeliness. Nobody can put a song "over" any better than can Morton. He has the recipe.

Mignonette Kokin and Fred Galetti will give a musical and comedy surprise based on the kind of entertainments given in the various cities. Mignonette is a little dancer. Maletti is the violinist of the similans. It is a novel little act, differing markedly from most others we see today.

The three Ander Sisters will give a glimpse of the stage dressing room in their act given over to many things. Music, dancing and comedy, and quick changing in dressing will be shown by these clever girls.

Gould and Sturgis are two talented young women who play the piano and violin, and Bender & Heer are novelty athletic performers. In addition there will be shown the Kinograms: Topics of the Day and a comedy film.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

When Ben Ames wrote "Toujours de l'audace" for the Strand, the Evening Post he composed a tale that delighted thousands of readers. Now it has been transferred to the screen for the delight of an even larger number of admirers and with Wallace Reid and Margaret Loomey in the leading roles, it should create an instant hit. "Always Audacious," as it is called in photoplay form, is being shown at the Merrimack Square theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The story tells of a gentleman who shanghaies a young millionaire of

THE STRAND

Fascinating Viola Dana in "Blackmail," her latest screen success, will be shown for the first time in Lowell at The Strand today. It's the story of a girl who inherited the promise from her dying father "to be a good crook, and not let the cops forget the name of Golden." Flossie started out to make good the promise and during it course of her adventures she comes across a man who swings her efforts to be crooked to "the street called straight." It's a decidedly clever and interesting story and the star, assisted by a capable cast, make it particularly entertaining.

Harry Carey, in "Blue Streak McCoy," a thrilling action story with the second feature, "The Bill," and this too, should give a full measure of enjoyment to all. A good comedy and Weekly will round out the bill.

OPERA HOUSE

The most gorgeous and massive production ever given before a Lowell public is what is promised the patrons of the Opera House for the coming week when Frederic and Fanny Watson's famous fun and fashion success, "Lombardi," will be presented by the Lowell Players under the personal supervision of Director Jack Bennett. Owner J. W. Schaefer has gone to extra expense to give to the people of the city and suburbs a replica of the original production that stirred Broadway a few seasons back. The wardrobe and stage details necessary to make the production a finished one will represent an investment of $20,000. The L. Chalifoux Co. and the Jordan Marfond Co. will furnish the gowns and military uniforms, and their expert dressers and decorators will assist. Director Bennett in stage dressings and settings.

TO CARE FOR 300,000 JEWISH WAR ORPHANS

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Broad plans by which, through American aid, the several hundred thousand Jewish war orphans of Europe and Palestine are to be supported and cared for were announced last night by the joint distribution committee of the American Funds for Jewish War Sufferers, which has created a war orphans' committee, comprised of distinguished Americans, under the chairmanship of Major Solomon Lowenstein of the Red Cross, executive director of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic societies of New York city and formerly superintendent of the Hebrew orphan asylum there.

In connection with the announcement emphasis is laid by Felix M. Warburg, chairman of the joint distribution committee, on the fact that the orphan problem is of the largest magnitude and importance and will remain a problem to be dealt with for many years to come.

"The future of the children of Europe affects," says Mr. Warburg's statement, accompanying the announcement, "not alone the future of the Jewish people throughout the world but the well-being of all the countries of Europe and of the near east."

"It is recognized by the committee that it is both impractical and unwise to attempt to solve the problem through the emigration of any large number of orphans, either to America or to the south."

"The committee's effort will be directed along the line of developing the orphans in each country into the most useful and patriotic citizens of the country of which they are natives and special pains is to be taken to direct their lives toward producing from the soil, rather than in the lines of trade."

"To in any way grapple successfully with this problem," Mr. Warburg further declared last night, "the sympathy and interest of all the Jewish people of the United States must be secured, especially of the women, to whom the subject of the welfare of these hundreds of thousands of children should appeal with particular force, as was true of the appeals made during the war in behalf of the children of France, Belgium, Serbia and other nations."

Two main objectives are to be sought by the committee, acting in conjunction with a European bureau, under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Simon Peter of Cincinnati. The first is to enlisted the contributions of a great number of American Jews who shall agree to give $100 a year for the support of an orphan in Europe and, the second, to accomplish the reunion of scattered numbers of Jewish war orphans with their relatives in the United States.

Upon the committee, the directing head of which is Charles Zunser, formerly consul of the national delegation bureau, and which is representative of the three constituent committees of the joint distribution committee are, for the American Jewish relief committee, Cyrus L. Sulzberger, Arthur Lehman, Dr. Leo K. Frankel and Dr. Judah L. Magnes; for the central relief committee, Rabbi Meyer Berlin, Leon Kamaloff, Rabbi Aaron Taffelbaum, Abraham Scheppen and Rabbi M. Z. Margolies and for the people's relief committee, Alexander Kahn, Morris Rothenberg, Meyer Gillis, Adolph Held and B. C. Viadeck. Major Lowenstein, chairman of the committee, made an exhaustive study during the war for the Red Cross of conditions affecting the war orphans in the near east and by training and experience is especially qualified for the great work entrusted to him.

The plan for establishing a system of financial adoptions of Jewish war orphans is to be in charge of Miss Jessie Bogen, daughter of Dr. Boris D. Bogen, at the head of the committee's relief work in Poland, and who, herself, spent many months abroad. This plan is to follow the general lines of the fund for French war orphans and of the other funds created for the support of Serbian and Belgian war orphans.

Mr. William W. Hughes of 316 North G St., St. Louis, Mo., writes to the "T.B.I. Hospital Institute" the following year: "I take Cascade several months ago and already it has made me robust and healthy though I've hardly run down because of a complication of troubles. This is in spite of the fact that I am 70 years old."

The "T.B.I. Cascade" cures the lower intestine its entire length and keeps it always free of putridous waste.

Thousands testify that Constipation, Indigestion, Stomach Troubles, Bloating, Headaches and all the many serious trouble which their days are absolutely free of, and are prevented by this safe Treatment.

Your local druggist will be glad to show you the "T.B.I. Cascade" and explain its simple operation and will give you free on request, an interesting little book by Dr. Elias A. Tyrell of New York, a noted specialist on Internal Bathing for 25 years in that city. Slip this out as a reminder to ask for the booklet at your first opportunity.—ADV.

6 CHILDREN DIE IN MOVIE PANIC

Trampled to Death in New York Theatre—Cry of "Fire" Causes Wild Rush

Crusade to Bar Children From Theatres Unless Accompanied by Adults

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—A crusade or stricter endorsement of the city ordinance forbidding motion picture proprietors to sell tickets to minors unless accompanied by parents or guardians was started by the police today as a result of the panic in the Catherine theatre on the lower East Side, last night, when six children were trampled to death in a panic after a false alarm.

Bernard Weitberg and Max Schwartz, proprietors of the Catherine theatre, and Joseph Polivian, janitor, were arrested and held without bail for examination. It is alleged that one of the front exits of the theatre was locked at the time.

Most of the 12 other youngsters seriously injured when older children, men and women bowed them over in their scramble toward the exits, were in a critical condition today.

Smoke caused by the junior in starting a fire in the furnace led to the panic.

The little theatre was crowded to capacity and children filled most of the seats. When smoke appeared an elderly woman shouted, "My God! It is a fire!" Immediately loud wails arose, children began to cry. They jumped from their seats, jammed the aisles and fled for passage. The lights flickered out.

Youthful cries attracted many residents. Camille Braillo, who sells bananas from a push-cart on the Bowery, rushed to the scene. He darted into the theatre, attempted to shout down the cries. Falling, he saved those he could. Camille carried more than 15 little ones to safety, then collapsed, overcome by smoke.

ALLEGED COLLECTIONS AT SUNDAY GAMES

Complaints alleging that money has been collected at Sunday baseball games and other sports held on the Sabbath and that many games are being played without a permit from the park department have been received by Supt. John W. Kieran. The state law permitting Sunday sports says that no money shall be collected at any sporting event staged on that day and that no games shall be held without a permit from the park board. The complaints have been referred to the park commission and will be considered at its next meeting.

LOWELL MUSICIANS' UNION

The annual meeting of the Lowell Musicians' Union was held yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the organization in Central street, and a feature of the meeting was the election of officers, which resulted as follows: Timothy F. McCarthy, president; John J. Giblin, vice president; Harry E. Clay, secretary-treasurer; Eugene Cote, sergeant-at-arms; Thomas Peale, William H. Jones, Charles B. Thompson, Mrs. C. Usher, John F. Morrissey, J. M. McDaniel and Edward A. Morris, executive board; John C. Carlson and George B. Markham, board of trustees for three and two years respectively. Frank McCashin, John P. McNabb and Alfred Daniels acted as election officers.

WORK PROGRESSING ON AUDITORIUM

Despite the fact that William Drapau, general contractor for the auditorium in East Merrimack street, has been delayed about seven weeks in his work because of the non-arrival of cement and brick, the job is progressing rapidly and Mr. Drapau stated this morning that unless there is a delay in the shipment of the steel, he will be able to make up for lost time.

About 60 men are employed on the job and they are rushing things along. The work of demolishing the old Della street on the corner of Stackpole and East Merrimack streets, which was started some time ago and stopped, has been resumed and it is expected within a short time the brick structure will have disappeared with the exception of the northern corner, which will be left standing for an office.

The foundation for the auditorium is practically finished, while eight out of ten outside entrances have been done. The excavating is 90 per cent completed, while the brick work is about one-third along. The job of setting the interior piers is about 85 per cent done, while 80 per cent of the granite piers have been paid. The job of putting in the end stone is about 80 per cent done and it is expected that before Christmas the Liberty hall and Trophy hall will be roofed in.

For about an hour every morning Contractor Drapau is kept busy responding to demands for work. He said at least 100 men apply for work practically every morning, but he is unable to employ all of them.

EARLY SUNDAY MORNING RAID

In gambling raid on rooms in the block at the corner of Palmer and Merrimack streets early Sunday morning, 11 young men, giving the following names: Gillion Roquette, Arthur Shaw, Samuel Ruthier, John J. Harvey, John Donnelly, John J. Kau, Daniel Roche, William Hamiton, John J. Murphy, Burton W. Jones and Charles F. Riley, were arrested, booked at the station and retained on bail for appearance in court this morning when they were fined $10 each. Riley, according to the police, jumped out a two-story window to the ground when the officers raided the place, received injury to his ankle and is now confined in a hospital. He pleaded guilty through his counsel who paid his fine. In this raid Officers Cooney, Moore, Winn and Clark seized gaming tables, chairs and other implements.

ENJOYED HIKE

Y.W.C.A. Girls Had Time of Their Lives Saturday—Enjoyed the Pleasures of the Great Outdoors
Forty-five girls of the several divisions of the Y.W.C.A. hiked out Andrew street Saturday afternoon to Heward Foster's farm. Here a huge fire was made, with the women and the boys roasting. The hike was in charge of Miss Evelyn Hersey. On their return, the girls enjoyed games and sports in the Y building. Hiking will be one of the features of the Y program throughout the winter and Saturday afternoon is the time set for it.

For all employed girls next Saturday night at the Y there will be recreation night. It is planned to have movies, roller skating, music, games and fun for all. The social hour at the association yesterday afternoon was enlivened by a fine matroto concert. Tea was served by Miss Althea MacDougal, Miss Edith Giddes and Miss Janet MacDougal.

FILES EXPENSE ACCOUNT

Gardner W. Pearson, successful candidate for senator in the seventh Middlesex district, today filed his expense account with the election commissioners. It totals $39.45.

WATERHEAD MILLS BOWLING LEAGUE

Some very lively contests have been made by the teams of the Waterhead mills bowling league on the Postoffice alleys during the past few weeks. The starting point is the placing of note, but the teams are so evenly matched that whether above or below the average, they will always provide excitement. If standing of the teams were regulated according to the placing of the individuals, there would be considerable shaking up for Team 8 now in fifth place would jump into fourth, Team 5 now in seventh place would take sixth, Team 7 now eighth would take ninth and Team 1 now in fourth, would go to the bottom. The individual averages for the contests rolled up to the present are as follows:

FIRE INVESTIGATIONS

State Officer Frank G. Hale, of Boston, who with Chet Saunders, State Fire Marshal, conducted an investigation of the Brookline street fire, which caused the death of three children, will report his finding to State Fire Marshal George C. Neald some time this week. The fire, which caused considerable damage to the Haut grocery and provision store at the corner of Liberty and School streets, a couple of weeks ago, is also being investigated. Chet Saunders of the local fire department informed that a hearing will be held some time this week in Boston in an endeavor to determine the cause of the fire.

Y.M.C.L. BOWLERS

In the last contests between the Police and the Tigers of the Y.M.C.L. bowling league the former won by three points. The totals were 2144 and 2113. The highest three string total was 293 by McCaffrey of the Police, while the highest individual single was 113 by S. O'Neill of the Tigers and the highest four single was 741 by the Police. The summary: Police—Burns, 281; McCaffrey, 299; Hart, 251; Doyle, 259; Shea, 244; Riley, 260; Donohoe, 267; Slover, 265; totals, 2113.

TELEPHONE ALARMS

At 11:45 o'clock this forenoon there was a telephone alarm for a chimney fire at the Coburn estate in Bedford street. Fire was well under control when the alarm was received. The fire was at 3:10 p.m. for a grass fire in Moody street and the other at 9:15 p.m. for a chimney fire at 22 Enfield street. No damage.

YOUR AIM IN LIFE

Someone asked Professor Agassiz once: "Why haven't you, with your wonderful knowledge of geology, become a wealthy man?" The reply was, "I have never had time to make money." With most of us it would be true. It we said that we have never had, or have never tried to have, time for much of anything else except making money. Tell and tell most of us do, day in and day out, for Uncle Sam's green printed promises to pay. We perhaps divert our minds from the all-absorbing occupation for time enough to read the newspaper, to attend the movies, to discuss parthenocarpically political issues or the stock market, or, in the case of a modern woman, who has entered business life and is chasing the elusive dollar, there may be the mild relaxation of comparing notes about furs and fur-below.

One of the most wonderful pictures ever drawn by an artist shows St. Francis of Assisi, leaving his father's house, from which he had been cast out, utterly without human possessions. He was about to give up wealth and ease for a life of toil and service which was to transform a considerable part of the world and make his name and example blessed for all generations to come.

St. Francis' command to all of his disciples, when they first came to him, if they possessed wealth, was "Go sell all that thou hast and give to the poor." There is no particular need of most of us following this ascetic rule. But it still remains true that if we have bound all of our powers up in the pursuit of wealth, we had better dump it all overboard, if we have any to dump, and start over again with a better rule of life.

The world has too much that is of absorbing interest, too much that needs to be done and someone to do it, for any man or woman to tie all of their efforts down to the tasks of money-grubbing.

Art and music stand ready to come to the gentle and inspiring ministration of all who will open their eyes to see and their ears to hear. Books—how much more of satisfaction for the man or woman who is alive to the beauties and realities of life there is in their simple touch than in gripping the fingers about greenbacks. Balm and refreshments for the wearied soul flow down through the ages in the stream of literature. And then think of the great out-door world—the inexhaustible treasures of enjoyment and satisfaction that Nature holds out in abundance to those who take the time to really get acquainted with her.

But, oh, piffle says someone. I have got a job to hang on to; shoes to buy; a grocery bill to pay; a landlord or tax collector to satisfy; those things take all of my time and energy. Very likely—yes, possibly, very truly—and yet the cattle on a thousand hills have little to envy in you if that is the truth and the whole truth. It all depends upon your aim in life whether that be cordial or given to higher ideals.

CLEMENCEAU VS. FOCH

At the present time a violent controversy between General Foch and former Premier Clemenceau is raging in the press of France.

For some time past the people of France have become alarmed over the arrogance of Germany and the growing probability that she will eventually find means of evading her responsibility to France and the payment of the indemnities provided for under the Versailles treaty. Clemenceau places the blame at the door of General Foch, to whom he has always shown a dislike. He claims that he did not approve of the armistice and that Germany should have been compelled to surrender unconditionally, whereas she was allowed to back away under the impression that she was not beaten and that the war was a draw. On the other hand General Foch shows that Germany realized and admitted her defeat and that England especially objected to further loss of life while the objects sought were attained through the armistice.

General Foch meets the criticism of his conduct with strong and indeed unanswerable arguments, but in spite of this the public as usual in such cases, will be divided and in many cases deluded into believing what is not true.

Clemenceau is trying to cast all blame for the effect of subsequent conditions upon France on his own shoulders. General Foch brought about a situation that made it utterly impossible for Germany to resume hostilities with any hope of success. It then lay with the peace congress to frame the terms of peace that would compel Germany to indemnify France so far as that is possible for the ravages of the war and the fearful loss of life. It was Premier Clemenceau who represented France at the peace table and agreed to the terms of the treaty which General Foch condemned as "a worthless check signed by Germany on which you cannot cash a franc."

Surely that places the blame for the present disagreeing prospect of enforcing the terms of the peace treaty where it belongs, with Clemenceau. It is true that he yielded many points—many just demands in deference to England and America on the ground that they would sign a treaty mutually binding them to come to the defense of France if she should again be attacked by Germany.

Because President Wilson was unable to make good his agreements, that treaty has fallen through and is not likely to be revived. That is one of the reasons why the French people feel disappointed over the winning of the war and the fading prospect of greater adequate regulation from Germany.

It also explains why Clemenceau is trying to blame General Foch for the barren results of the peace treaty.

WHAT PAPA SAID

Two charming sisters are engaged to two brothers, and their neighbors have been interested in this dual love affair. The young girls live in the second flat of a house on the south side of the street, and the other day the older sister was stopped in the street by the young son of the family who occupy the second flat in the house just opposite.

"O, Miss Meggs," said the boy, "my papa said last night that some one ought to tell you to pull down the blinds, 'cause if Iove is blind, the neighbors are not."

SHOWED GOOD JUDGMENT

"Bad Buckover hasn't got no sense worth mentioning," said a citizen of Sandy Mush, Ariz. "T'other evening he got into a fuss with his wife, and beuz suttin' or nutther didn't suit him, he began to yell and slash around with his revolver. Then he boogled out of the door and fired his gun in the air. Prob'ly he hoggered his wife wout think he'd shot himself, and be sorry. But, about that time, Hamps Soother came in at the gate, and, nacherly, spossing Bud was shooting at him, pulled his gun and let drive, and shot Bud through the shoulder. If Bud had had any sense he'd a-recollect that a family row is like the teller said of Legins at home, and ort to stay there."—Kansas City Star.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

The season of gorgeous sunsets is here and the workers in The Sun editorial rooms have reserved seats on the grand stand to witness the almost unbelievably beautiful displays. From a western window Friday evening was spread out such a picture as makes the beholder long for the soul of an artist, and the colors and skill to place on permanent record the beauty so prodigiously displayed. Perhaps, though, it we could imprison and retain such pictures they could become only commonplace. At the southwestern corner of the horizon, where the sun had just dipped out of sight, was a splotch of deepest crimson, and just above in lateral layers stretched banks of clouds that reflected all the colors of the spectrum. Gradually the crimson faded to a rosy pink and then to orange, and the highest clouds became opalescent. Against a soft background was outlined the silent sentinel of St. Patrick's church spire. A little farther along, the eagle atop of city hall tower stood silhouetted as if ready for flight. From below the unwinking eye of the illuminated clock looked solemnly across the building tops. An autumn quiet brooded in the air. The noises of the street did not reach to the Man About Town's aero observation seat. The town seemed to be napping. It was like the quiet of which Wordsworth wrote with London in his mind:

"Never saw I never felt a calm so deep;

The rills glided at its own sweet will;

Dear God, the very houses seem asleep;

And all that mighty heart is lying still."

And, by the way, I believe that

Wean has one of the most attractive sky-lines in the country. Does anyone wish to argue that question?

About three hundred years ago to-day a great American institution—Monday washing—was established. We hear a good deal about the trials and hardships of the Pilgrim fathers. The Pilgrim mothers had theirs also. During the long voyage across the ocean they had been unable to cleanse the accumulating piles of soiled clothing. The little Mayflower could carry only sufficient supplies of fresh water to serve for washing purposes. Salt water and soap have little affinity for each other, and an attempt to wash in the water of the ocean is more likely to fix the dirt than remove it. It is not strange, therefore, that one of the first things that the Pilgrim mothers thought of, after their small craft had rounded Race Point and come to anchor in the calm harbor of Provincetown, should have been washing. A spring was located on shore, and when Myles Standish and his roughy band, started on their tour of exploration up the cape, there was a great onslaught made on the soiled clothes that had accumulated on the Mayflower. It happened that the day was Monday, and that is one of the reasons why successive generations of American women have followed the custom of washing on the second day of the week. It is interesting to compare the washtub utensils used by the first-comers with the modern washing machines such as are turned out in Lowell. The Pilgrim mothers could not turn an electric switch and then sit down with a book of the latest fiction in hand to have their work done for them by machine as the woman of today is pictured in the ads as doing. At present, in some of the older homes of Cape Cod are to be found round barrels. These are wooden casks with which go a heavy wooden "pounder" at the end of a pole. The clothes are put in the barrel in soapy water and the dirt removed by pounding. This is very probably an inheritance from the Pilgrim mothers.

THE RED CROSS DRIVE

In the drive for increased membership in the Red Cross, every man, woman and child in Lowell should show keen interest. Of all the organizations active in the relief of suffering and general human work there is none more deserving than the Red Cross. During the war the Red Cross showed its worth in caring for the wounded and dying under the most trying circumstances, but now that the war is over, there is still plenty of work calling for the active service of the Red Cross.

Men of high standing in all creeds and races have testified to the noble service of the Red Cross and nowhere has there been any just cause of discrimination because of race, color or creed.

The Red Cross organization always stands ready to respond to the call of suffering humanity and for that reason it deserves the support of all classes of citizens. The present drive for funds and membership is reported to be falling behind the record of last year. That is not creditable to Lowell although we are confident that in this case, as in every other in which our citizens have been appealed to in behalf of worthy cause, they will go over the top with a whoop before the time limit is reached.

Perhaps someone can also tell us why repairs on the Centralville bridge were not made in summer instead of making it necessary for people to stop and stomp and freeze while the street cars are shut off from going over it in mid-winter.

We can hope that Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis will be more scrupulous in his effort to clear up the baseball chaos than was his in getting the $2,000,000 fine collected that he imposed on the Standard Oil trust.

President Wilson asks us to draw our attention away from "the distractions and pre-occupations of our daily life" as a preparation for Thanksgiving. It's no use, we shall have to wait until the turkey is paid for.

If games of football are to be played on Sunday, there should be some to say that they do not develop into shoving matches such as have already been witnessed here on one or two occasions.

"A silk stocking looks well in its place," says the ad of a local banking institution. My, my, and to think that some people used to think that it wasn't quite proper to admit that even a piano had legs.

Sugar prices continue to tumble, but it isn't necessary to put four pounds in a cup of coffee when tea will do to make up for just deprivation.

If people don't buy, we're not to buy, mills shut down and people have to money to buy—there you have the whole of a vicious circle.

Add to the causes for good digestion for your Thanksgiving dinner membership in the Red Cross.

Prosperity makes us soft a little, the experts won't last.

LONDON PAPER'S VIEW OF IRISH SITUATION

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Hugh March, in a despatch from Dublin to the Daily News says:

"It has been my duty to watch at close quarters the unfolding of this drama, which, in its implications and results, may well prove one of the great world-moulding tragedies of the human race."

"And now, as I leave this theatre for a little while to share in my own country's celebration of the victory of the idea of freedom, what else can I do, as an Englishman, except to bow my head in shame."

"The people of England would share in that shame if they had lived through this three months on Irish soil. It is an abiding disgrace to the press of England—a crime against truth and liberty—that so few Englishmen do know. Yet, if only a few Englishmen share this sense of shame on Armistice day, the world of some of us will not have been thrown away."

RED CROSS READY TO DO IRISH RELIEF WORK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Dr. Livingston Farrand, chairman of the Central Committee, American Red Cross, in a statement, here said no definite plans had been formulated to extend relief work to Ireland.

"The American Red Cross views with deep sympathy and solicitude suffering and distress in Ireland as well as in other parts of the world," he said. "Following its regular procedure, it has requested of its representatives in Europe a report on the situation both as to the need and the practicability of American Red Cross assistance. Such a report has not yet been received.

"Further, there has not come to the American Red Cross from the government of the United States nor from any government concerned nor from the League of Red Cross societies, to some of which agencies the American Red Cross, under its practice, would look for the initiative in this matter, any intimation that conditions call for the immediate offer of such assistance as the American Red Cross might be expected under its charter to render.

CHRONIC CATARRH

Follows Repeated Colds When Blood Is Impure

Your body suffering from a cold does not properly attend to digestion and elimination. As a result your blood becomes impure. It inflames the mucous membrane and brings about that condition in which chronic catarrh occurs and on which it depends.

Purify your blood, make it clean by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and if your bowels are not healthfully active, take Hood's Pills. These medicines have relieved and prevented thousands of cases of chronic catarrh. Economy is one of the strong points of Hood's Sarsaparilla—100 doses in a bottle. Why not get it today?—Adv.

DELEGATES RECEIVE THEIR INSTRUCTIONS

The following delegates who are to represent the local branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom at the state convention to be held in Worcester on Sunday, Nov. 27, received their instructions at a special meeting held in Hibernian Hall last evening: Stephen Flynn, Michael J. Markham, Catherine McNamee, Maria Markham, Michael Mitchell, M. J. Monahan, F. A. Wrenock, John Barrett, P. W. Moran, D. J. Mahoney, John Balfry and Michael P. Quinn.

The following nominations for officers of the local branch for the coming year were also made at last evening's meeting:

President, John Barrett; vice president, Maria Markham; recording and corresponding secretary, Miss Mary McNamee; financial secretary and treasurer, John Sheahan; orator, James O'Sullivan; guard, M. J. Monahan; trustees, Mrs. M. J. Sharkey, John Balfry and Mrs. O'Grady.

BETTER PASSENGER SERVICE

As a result of a petition presented by residents of North Billerica, the officials of the Boston & Maine railroad have added an additional passenger service for the town went into effect today. The train leaving this city at 8:55 p. m. for Boston will make a stop at the North Billerica station at 8:58. This train comes through from White River Junction and makes connections with the Central Vermont and points on the Putney division north of White River. The new train will be of great service to the residents of North Billerica.

YOUNG MAN KILLED AT B. & M. CAR SHOPS

While repairing the motor of an electric crane at the Boston & Maine car shop in Billerica yesterday morning, Albert Thibodeau, aged 19 years, and residing at 8 Cambridge street, was pinned between the carriage of the crane and the low girders of the boiler room of the plant. Death was almost instantaneous.

Thibodeau, who was an electrician's helper, was on the carriage of the crane at the time of the accident, and the carriage was being swung about

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Trading at the opening of today's stock market suggested a resumption of the previous fortnight's irregular movements, despite a strengthening of the local banking position. The constructive side was featured by rails, Northern Pacific and Reading, soaring initial gains of 14 and 13 points, respectively. Crucible Steels and American Tobacco reacted 1 to almost 2 points, and other industries of the same class, also rubbers and tobacco, were lower by fractions to two points. Further heavy gold exports were without effect on foreign exchanges, the London rate holding at last week's final quotation.

Lowest prices of the current movement were made by a number of leaders during the active first hour, with further offerings traceable in part to speculative accounts which were thrown over almost regardless of values. Oils, steels, equipments and motors specialists were the principal sufferers, rails cancelling a gain. A sharp rally soon set in, however, Mexican Petroleum rising 6 points, Southern Pacific 2 and U. S. Steel 3, other oilers following in 1 to 13. The money market seemed disposed to take cognizance of easier local bank conditions, call loans showing at 8% per cent, the lowest initial quotation in almost three weeks.

Shorts found it difficult to cover on the lower rate for demand loans, largely evidently being unable to reduce quotation. Industrial rails and other representative steels and equipments were well supported, holding at or near best prices of the month.

Prices eased from top levels in the last hour on profit-taking, although call money was offered at 7 per cent. The closing was heavy.

DOUBLE MILITARY
FUNERAL YESTERDAY

Over 2500 people attended the double funeral services, which were held at St. Jean Baptiste church yesterday afternoon for Priv. William H. Clouture, son of Mrs. Agnes Clouture of 183 Moody and Priv. Peter Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isidore April of 223 Salem street, both of whom died in France while in the service of Uncle Sam. The body of Private Clouture arrived in this city last Wednesday, while the remains of Priv. April reached Lowell Saturday morning. Both bodies were taken to the C.M.A.C. parlors in Pawtucket street, and arrangements were made for a double funeral to be held yesterday afternoon.

The double funeral cortège left the rooms of the C.M.A.C. at 1:30 o'clock and headed by a firing squad from the American Legion and a large delegation of veterans of the world war, who acted as an escort to the two automobile hearses, wended its way down Merrimack street to the church, where a solemn Mass was chanted at two o'clock, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Augustin Graton, O.M.I., assisted by Rev. Charles Denzot, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. J. N. Bachand, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. The large church was filled to the doors and many who were unable to gain admittance remained on the steps during the services.

An augmented choir under the direction of Joseph Paradis, who also presided at the organ, rendered "Perpetual," harmonized "Liberia," the solo being sustained by J. E. Nolet, Adolphe Brassard, E. J. Laroche and Frank Gourdeau. At the close of the service Mr. Nolet sang Schubert's "Farewell." Seated within the sanctuary were Rev. E. J. Turcotte, O.M.I., pastor; Rev. Guillaume Ouellette, O.M.I., and Rev. Joseph A. Bolduc, O.M.I.

From the church, the funeral cortège wended its way to St. Joseph's cemetery, where the bodies were buried in their respective family lots. During the march to the church and cemetery funeral dirges were played on the drums by Robert Lard and Frederick Powell and at the graves volleys were fired by the firing squad and "laps" was blown by Buglers Williston Carl and Emile Lamoureux. The bearers for Priv. Clouture were Ernest J. Brown, Raymond Deschenes, Fred Deschenes, Arthur Perigny, Omer Allard, Harry Cyr, Wilfred Thivierge and Louis O'Neill, while those for Priv. April were Thomas Sambois, Joseph Breton, Camille Bolavet, Joseph Bergeron, Victor Maher, Arthur Boucher and Armand Belanger, all veterans of the world war, who were attired in their uniforms and who marched on each side of the hearses.

The firing squad and delegation of world war veterans was commanded by Maj. James A. Powers. The squad consisted of the following: Joseph Coughlin, Edward H. Sullivan, Melvin F. Whitecomb, Charles Bourke, W. G. Miller, Frank Smith and Walter Hostie. The communal prayers at the graves were read by Rev. Joseph A. Bolduc, O.M.I. The funeral arrangements for Priv. Clouture were in charge of Undertakers Amédée Archambault & Sons, while those for Priv. April were under the direction of Undertaker Joseph Allard.

MEETING YESTERDAY
AT C. M. A. C. HALL

A general meeting of French-speaking male voters of this city was held yesterday afternoon at the C.M.A.C. hall. The meeting, which was largely attended, was held under the auspices of the executive committee and was presided over by the chairman, Ousine Tremblay. A feature of the meeting was the election of officers for the executive committee for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows: One-Sing Tremblay, chairman; Hormisius Ducharme, secretary; Ernest Verville, treasurer; Joseph A. Plante, Rosalie Lester, William H. Vincent and F. X. Desnoyer, directors.

In the course of the meeting the chairman of the committee gave a lengthy report of the defense of the organization during the past year and routine business was transacted. The sum of $100 was voted to the permanent committee on annualization, the money to be used to defray part of the expenses of the work of canvassing the city to ascertain how many young men and young women among the French-speaking people of this city are eligible to have their names on the check list. It was also decided to call a general meeting of the French-speaking male and female voters of the city in the near future, and it was announced that prominent out-of-town speakers will be secured for the occasion.

Use Sloan's to Ward Off Pain

You can just tell by its healthy, stimulating odor, that it is going to do you good.

"I only had some Sloan's Liniment. Now, when you're sick, that's when you're in the rheumatic twinges, subsided after hours of suffering—you forgot it!"

"Don't do it again—get a bottle today and keep it handy for possible use tonight! A sudden attack may come on—stomach bungo, sore muscles, backache, stiff joints, rheumatism, the pains and aches resulting from exposure. You'll soon find warmth and relief in Sloan's, the liniment that penetrates without rubbing. Clean, economical. Three sizes—35c, 70c, $1.45."

Over 2500 people attended the double funeral services, which were held at St. Jean Baptiste church yesterday afternoon for Priv. William H. Clouture, son of Mrs. Agnes Clouture of 183

Moody and Priv. Peter Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isidore April of 223 Salem street, both of whom died in France while in the service of Uncle Sam. The body of Private Clouture arrived in this city last Wednesday, while the remains of Priv. April reached Lowell Saturday morning. Both bodies were taken to the C.M.A.C. parlors in Pawtucket street, and arrangements were made for a double funeral to be held yesterday afternoon.

The double funeral cortège left the rooms of the C.M.A.C. at 1:30 o'clock and headed by a firing squad from the American Legion and a large delegation of veterans of the world war, who acted as an escort to the two automobile hearses, wended its way down Merrimack street to the church, where a solemn Mass was chanted at two o'clock, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Augustin Graton, O.M.I., assisted by Rev. Charles Denzot, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. J. N. Bachand, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. The large church was filled to the doors and many who were unable to gain admittance remained on the steps during the services.

An augmented choir under the direction of Joseph Paradis, who also presided at the organ, rendered "Perpetual," harmonized "Liberia," the solo being sustained by J. E. Nolet, Adolphe Brassard, E. J. Laroche and Frank Gourdeau. At the close of the service Mr. Nolet sang Schubert's "Farewell."

Seated within the sanctuary were Rev. E. J. Turcotte, O.M.I., pastor; Rev. Guillaume Ouellette, O.M.I., and Rev. Joseph A. Bolduc, O.M.I.

From the church, the funeral cortège wended its way to St. Joseph's cemetery, where the bodies were buried in their respective family lots. During the march to the church and cemetery funeral dirges were played on the drums by Robert Lard and Frederick Powell and at the graves volleys were fired by the firing squad and "laps" was blown by Buglers Williston Carl and Emile Lamoureux.

The bearers for Priv. Clouture were Ernest J. Brown, Raymond Deschenes, Fred Deschenes, Arthur Perigny, Omer Allard, Harry Cyr, Wilfred Thivierge and Louis O'Neill, while those for Priv. Thousands Face Death in Rush for Oil

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 15.—Held back by a cordon of mounted police, thousands of persons are roughing it in camps at Peace River Crossing, awaiting opportunity to make a 1500-mile dash to Port Norman, on MacKenzie river, where an oil strike was made recently. Because of weather conditions, the authorities fear many will lose their lives if permitted to proceed before the snow lifts and the ice goes out.

Mobs Attack Salvation Army

TOKIO, Nov. 15.—Anti-Christian mobs twice broke up Salvation army jubilee celebrations here yesterday. Gangs of students dispersed an open air gathering, while a mob invaded an indoor meeting, tore down the decorations and silenced the speakers. Officials of the Salvation Army declare they believe the disturbances were fomented by Buddhists.

LOCAL FIRE LOSSES

SUN BREVITIES

This Year's Losses Less Than Last Year

Lowell's fire losses for 1920 will be considerably lower than in 1919, judging from the figures for the first 10 months of the year. Up to Nov. 1, this year, there had been a total loss of $160,626.20, while at the same time last year the loss totalled $194,562.01. The total loss last year was $325,952.95, but less some unusually disastrous fires break out in the remaining few weeks of the year the 1920 loss will be at least $50,000 less.

The greatest loss in any one month this year was in June when the Cherry & Webb fire occurred. The insured loss for that month was $16,392.20 and the uninsured loss $16,581.81. The total insured loss of the first 10 months of 1920 has been $90,466.01 and the uninsured loss $61,160.13.
